The WEEK

By A. M. Brayton

ARMENIA is overrun by the Turks. One city's death toll was 10,000—men, women and children. The capital city has been surrendered, and the fugutives are at the mercy of the murderous Saracens.

THE VERDICT "GUILTY"

An ultimatum from Washington might not stop this debauch of assassination, but such a notification backed up by an American squadron and supported by a message from the business end of an American battery would doubtless do so. One recalls how a former sultan turned himself inside out at a word from Theodore Roosevelt. Meaning what we say, with leaden punctuation, is enough for the unspeakable Turk.

With senatorial politicians as his spokesman, Uncle Sam has refused a mandate for Armenia. It meant only a big brother protectorate of Europe's first Christian nation, for ages long the victims of pagan vengeance of thousands for the religious belief in which we share—on Sundays.

We shall not attempt to compare the fines which these small and self-poised politicians will pay at the court of Heaven for their appeal to the lower instincts of Americans. The crime is beyond man's judgment. But those who believe this life but a transient time in the spiritual development which fits us for a new and greater fellowship must look with deep misgiving upon the effect of our truancy. If out of the semi-chaos of the present there shall come a triumph of evil sufficient to crush modern civilization, we need seek for the key to Divine logic no further than the criminal delinquency of this shocking incident.

It is announced that Germany is prepared to enter the league of nations upon invitation, but will not formally request admission. Great Britain, one learns, has not decided whether to favor the invitation.

GERMANY AND LEAGUE

In any event, European observers agree that the participation of Germany is but a matter of a short time, because Germany prefers to deal with forty odd nations, many of them war neutrals, rather than remain at the mercy of governments allied against her during the war.

Americans who have felt that underlying the attitude of England and France is the policy of crushing Germany as a commercial rival, and who believe that the measure of indemnity should be what Germany can reasonably accomplish with such a residue for home consumption as will serve as an incentive to production and trade, may well consider this situation. As a rule they have opposed American participation in the league. If their wishes as disclosed in the recent election prevail, the restraining influence of this country can not be exerted in the interest of reason in matters of European restoration which vitally affect the German countries. Perhaps they have made a grave mistake to amend which they will have to work through the American senate.

* * * *

Forty-one nations are meeting in the first conference of the assembly of the league of nations. They represent at least three-fifths of the earth's population. They are dealing with matters which intimately touch the peace and well-being of the world. The organization was an American idea accepted as this country's first great war issue, but we are not represented. We are among the "innocent bystanders," subject to every consequence of the proceedings, but powerless to advise or to protest. A new national administration has been elected upon an appeal to international prejudices so conducted as to have robbed the victorious party of any well-defined policy touching our international relations. What will be done may depend largely upon the administration's interpretation of the election verdict. That would be politics. But it may be pointed out that the masterful meaninglessness of the republican platform leaves the door open to any step that the administration may prefer, and that the consensus of statesmanlike opinion within the republican party coincides in the idea that republicanism must circumvent the craft of the anti-league ward heelers and accord to the United States its rightful place among the powers of civilization. Mr. Root's London cable to Harding in August, declaring that, to destroy the present league would "mean chaos," and his opinion of the current week to the effect that the allies will accept certain "vital" amendments to the end that a plan "acceptable to the senate shall be built out of the present league of nations," are given additional significance by the probability that Root will be the new secretary of state. The question of the hour is to what extent the forty-one nations now convened in solemn conclave will be inclined to humor the whims of American politicians as finessed by republican statesmen. Lord Cecil on Wednesday called attention to the absurdity of Harding's declaration that the greatest assembly of civilized nations in history, functioning as he spoke, "is dead," and he might have added that in attempting to destroy it with a negative shrug America

TAX RATE IS A MILL LOWER IN PAST YEAR

Increasing Cost of Government is Felt by the Common Council in Passing Budget

LITTLE NEW IMPROVEMENT WORK POSSIBLE NEXT YEAR

Sixty Thousand Dollars is Allowed for This Item

ONE mill lower than last year, the tax rate for the city of La Crosse for the coming collection was fixed last night by the common council at 24 mills.

Despite the fact that the increase in property valuation here this year was approximately $10,000,000 or over 30 per cent, the city fathers last night found themselves unable to shave more than a mill off the tax rate. The high cost of government is blamed for the tax rate.

An increase of over $60,000 in the city's share of the state and county tax, an increase of $52,000 in the cost of maintaining the schools, due largely to raises in teachers salaries. Increases in salaries and operating expenses of every department in the city government, make up a total of more than four mills, according to a casual review of the figures, as compared to the budget of last year.

Mahoney Complains

Alderman Mahoney said the cost of municipal government was getting excessive. He declared the aldermen must exercise greater economy and learn "how to cut corners in financial affairs."

Chairman F. J. Verchota said the finance committee had done its best to keep the tax rate down, but mounting costs of operation and a big increase in the city's share of the state and county tax made it impossible to have a 22-mill rate, which was contemplated when the tentative budget was prepared. Other members of the finance committee are Aldermen Sloxandt and Rice.

In the budget as adopted by the common council Saturday night there is included in the current expense fund of $84,296 an item of $60,000 for water and sewer extensions and permanent street improvements during the coming year. This sum is to be expended as the council deems proper, when the trend of prices on materials is ascertained.

Paving Cost Still High

The finance committee does not believe the cost of street paving will be reduced sufficiently during the coming year to warrant the undertaking of any great amount of this work. Streets will be repaired and maintained so far as possible, but little new paving will be authorized according to present indications.

Following is the budget adopted by the common council last night:

After Coal by River

Mayor Bentley submitted a verbal report on the waterways conference in Minneapolis during the week, laying emphasis on the fact that the 19 steel barges and four tow-boats which will be utilized on the upper river next year will go straight through from southern Illinois to the Twin cities with coal, and will not stop at any river cities enroute because of inadequate terminal facilities.

GERMAN GUNS SOON TO BE DISTRIBUTED THROUGHOUT STATE

Many War Relics Will be Divided Among the Eleven Congressional Districts

APPROPRIATION FOR FEDERAL BUILDING IN MADISON URGED

New Representatives Arriving to Look over the Situation

BY BETTY PRUETT HARRINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Distribution of 50 cannons and trench mortars included in 21,821 units of captured German war material to be divided among the eleven congressional districts of Wisconsin will probably take place shortly after the convening of congress in December. The war relic bill, which was passed by congress before adjournment was not signed by the president through an oversight in failing to send the bill to him. He will probably receive it shortly after congress convenes and in all likelihood will sign it.

By the provisions of the bill Madison and other cities in the third district will receive one third of the material allotted to Wisconsin. This will give to that district 1,983 so-called units.

All Manner of War Relics

The material includes not only cannons and trench mortars, but all manner of war relics. Among them are helmets, cartridge shells, personal equipment of German soldiers, rifles, and cartridge pendles.

Representative James G. Monahan of Darlington has already arranged for the distribution of this material by appointing a committee representing the ten assembly districts in the third congressional district. The plan is to have these committees, which are headed by prominent citizens in the different communities, tend to division of the war relics.

A somewhat similar manner of distribution is being worked out by other congressmen who will have their portion of this material to allot to the communities in their district.

Madison Federal Building

Action on the proposed appropriation of $1,200,000 for a federal building in Madison will be again urged in this session of congress. The original bill asking for such an appropriation was introduced in June 5 of 1919 and called for $1,075,000. A substitute introduced in December of 1919 called for an appropriation of $1,300,000.

The house committee on buildings and public grounds, like the house rivers and harbors committee, made no appropriations for public buildings in the last session of congress. In keeping with their policy of economy, the republican majority decided against any such appropriations. It is within the realm of possibility now, that with the coming of a new administration, appropriations for this purpose wil be made.

Representative-elect John M. Nelson of Madison, who defeated Representative James G. Monahan of Darlington, was in Washington this week for the first time since the election. Mr. Nelson came here to make preparations for taking office on March 4 when the new administration comes in. He filed with the superintendent of the house office building a request for room 509. The disposition of rooms will be made on the basis of seniority when the new congress is organized.

Tax Law Revision Waits

Representative James A. Frear of Hudson has also returned to Washington. As a member of the powerful house ways and means committee he will participate in the proposed plan for the revision of the tax laws. The first question which the committee is to decide, however, is whether or not they should undertake to simplify the tax laws in the coming session or wait until the formation of congress after March 4. In any event, it is generally believed that any action for the repeal of the excess profits tax and reform in the income tax will probably wait until that time.

Representative Florian Lampert has already begun a study of just what duties in the plans for the inauguration will fall upon him as chairman of the house committee on the election of president, vice president, and members of congress.

Mr. Lampert is going to New York next week to attend the annual army and navy football game. He has par-

HOME FOR AGED IS NEW CATHOLIC INSTITUTION HERE

Announcement Made that La Crosse Will be Location of Building Planned

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS WILL BE RAISED IN STATE CAMPAIGN

Archbishop and Two Bishops Unite in Big Drive

A big new Catholic institution, a home for the aged, is to be erected in La Crosse within a year or two, according to announcement made Saturday. Just where the home will be located has not been determined, it was said at Bishop Schwebach's residence, but assurance is given that the institution will be built here.

A campaign for $5,000,000 to be used to carry on and develop the many worthy charities conducted by the Catholics of this state and to enlarge the Provincial Seminary, is being organized throughout the state, according to a statement made by Archbishop Messmer.

Big State Campaign

"It affords me great pleasure," said the Archbishop, "to announce to you that the Bishops of La Crosse and Green Bay with myself as well as the clergy of the dioceses represented in the meeting of the Consultors and Deans of said Dioceses, have decided to open a campaign for the purpose of raising $5,000,000 to be used in the support of the charitable institutions of these three Dioceses, present and future, and for the needs and maintenance of the St. Francis Provincial Seminary.

"In the three Dioceses in Wisconsin there are twenty Catholic institutions of a charitable and educational nature. These institutions, for the most part, have struggled through half a century; their scope and expansion have necessarily been limited to the amount of the monetary gifts of the people. Although this, in many cases has been generous, yet, due to the fact that few people know the true conditions of these institutions, and the great demands made upon them, the support received has never been really sufficient to advance the work in the degree required.

Few Are Self Supporting

"Very few of these institutions are self-supporting; in the majority of cases it is a monthly struggle to meet the expenses incurred. Many are heavily indebted and their normal revenue is eaten up by the interest that must be met on this indebtedness. In other words lack of finances is strangling their progress.

"A short survey of the conditions obtained at the St. Aemilian Orphanage will illustrate this point.

"There is a gross indebtedness of fifty-eight thousand dollars hovering over that worthy and highly beneficial institution with an interest rate of three thousand dollars per year. This is a most deplorable burden as money thrown away for interest would be sufficient to take care of the running expenses of the institution for a month.

Raise Money Outside

"In the past year besides money coming in from the Diocese and for board, about ten thousand dollars had to be raised from other sources to meet the running expenses; bequests, which are absolutely haphazard, had to be figured as normal income.

"This institution might struggle through year after year with the present conditions obtaining. But when the picture is brought before us of the numerous unfortunate children who would be turned from it's doors due to the lack of necessary funds for the proper development of this great charity, we know that we must work for such resources as will enable this institution to carry on at all times, present and future, the good that it can and ought to do.

Must Clear Off Debt

"This can only be brought about by a sufficient amount of money being raised to clear off this debt and to provide an endowment fund of at least one hundred thousand dollars to insure the normal expense of operation and necessary growth.

"What has been said of St. Aemilian's Orphan Asylum by way of illustration, may be said, with very few exceptions of all our charitable institutions. They are all greatly hampered in their good work by the lack of sufficient means and resources.

"The charitable and educational institutions which we purpose particularly to benefit by this campaign are:

Diocese of Milwaukee

St. Francis Seminary.
St. John's Institute for deaf mutes.
The St. Colletta Institute for Feebleminded, Jefferson, Wis.
St. Aemilian Orphan Asylum.
St. Rose's Orphan Asylum.
St. Joseph's Polish Orphan Asylum.
St. Vincent's Infant's House.
Misericordia Hospital for Infants
Catholic Day Nursery.
Catholic Boy's Home.
St. Bernard's Home for Workingmen, Milwaukee, Wis.
Our Community Houses and Homes for Girls.
St. Vincent de Paul Society.
Catholic Charities Bureau.

Crimeans Flee from Bolsheviki

PARIS.—Crimean refugees to a total of 150,000 are expected in Constantinople, according to French official reports of the movement from the peninsula which followed the bolsheviki successes against General Wrangel's army. Up to Thursday 105,000 refugees already had arrived, the number being made up of 24,000 civilians and 81,000 military. LEGION LAUNCHES SALVATION ARMY CANVASS MONDAY

Post Adjutant Schultz Takes Charges of Raising County Quota for Maternity Home

Launching of the canvass of La Crosse county to raise the community's $7,500 share in the fund to establish a Wisconsin maternity hospital and rescue home for unfortunate girls will take place on Monday morning at a meeting in the office of Major Reinhold F. M. Schultz, post adjutant of the American Legion, who has been selected as county chairman of the campaign.

The organization which will conduct the canvass throughout the city and country districts was rapidly taking shape on Saturday, and it was expected that most of the workers would be lined up at scratch for a fast start on Monday.

Charles Pivovitz, representing A. T. Van Scoy of Milwaukee, chairman of the Wisconsin advisory council of the Salvation Army, arrived during the week to assist Major Schultz in the canvass. The maternity hospital funds for which are being raised in every county in the state, is to be turned over to the Salvation Army to conduct when the amount is completed. Most of the counties have already completed their canvasses and turned in their quotas.

Responsibility for the collection of the quota in this county has been undertaken by the American Legion, and all of the county posts will co-operate with Shuman Post of this city in the work. The assistance of other organizations is also sought.

10-CENT LOAF OF BREAD REAPPEARS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO.—Several Chicago bakeries Saturday reduced their price of one pound loaves of bread to ten cents, and their twenty-four ounce loaf to fifteen and fourteen cents, a reduction of two to three cents. Larger bakery companies have not made any reduction. The drop in prices of flour is said to be responsible for the action of the bakeries.

Crew of Steamer Rescued By Guards At Marquette, Mich.

MARQUETTE, Mich.—Members of the crew of the steamer J. S. Sheadle of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company fleet, which went aground here early Saturday were taken off later in the day by Marquette coast guards.

The Sheadle an ore carrier, which loaded ore for Cleveland, while backing away from the Presque Isle ore dock here was caught by a strong current, which aided by a strong wind, swung the vessel out of the regular channel, and it struck a submerged rock, puncturing the steel plates on the port side. Water began pouring in the engine and boiler rooms so rapidly that firemen and engine-room workers left their posts.

The stern of the boat is in eighteen feet of water, while there is 32 feet of water at the bow.

HAITIEN POLICEMAN SAYS MARINE SEGT. KILLED A GENDARME

Naval Court of Inquiry Halted; Want Accused Man to Face Witness

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti.—By The Associated Press.—The testimony of Signon Gabot, a native gendarme, charging that Lieutenant Williams of the gendarmie beat a native to death in January, 1919, caused an unexpected delay Saturday in the proceedings of the naval court of inquiry which is investigating the alleged killing of Haitiens by American marines.

The witness failed to give Lieutenant Williams' initials, but it was officially explained that he referred to Dorens Williams, a sergeant of marines, who is now confined at Quantico, Virginia, awaiting court martial in Washington in connection with charges resulting from the investigation of conditions in Haiti by Major General John A. Lejeune, chief of the marine corps.

The court communicated with Secretary Daniels of the American navy, asking if Williams will be sent here to face his accuser or waive a hearing now. The trial of Williams had been postponed to await the result of the naval inquiry here.

Gabot testified he was alone in the office of the gendarmerie with Williams, when Garnier Jean was killed with a piece of lumber the size of a man's arm.

$80,000 IN DRAFTS BURNED, ALLEGED MAIL ROBBER SAYS

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia.—W. Noel, postoffice inspector from St. Louis, is authority for the statement late Saturday afternoon that Merl Phillips in one of his numerous alleged confessions, told of having seen among the stolen bonds three drafts, one for $40,000, one for $25,000 and one for $15,000. He said they were burned with other securities, according to Noel.

Formal charges were filed in federal court Saturday afternoon against the five men and one woman in custody. Merl Phillips, Orville Phillips and Fred E. Poffenberger are charged with breaking, entering and robbing United States mail train of registered mail.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Daly and Hugh Reed, charged with hiding stolen government property and aiding in the secretion of the stolen securities. Preliminary hearings will probably be held in a week.

GREEK CLAMOR FOR CONTANTINE'S RETURN DAMPENED BY RAIN

ATHENS—(By The Associated Press)—Enthusiasm over the prospective return of ex-King Constantine seemed to be dying down in Athens today, although the topic of the dynasty is virtually the only one on the tongues of the people and dealt with by the press. The capital this evening presented a gloomy picture. Rain was falling and the silence of the street crowds seemed to indicate a sobering down of the popular fervor with the propagandists for Constantine, unable, temporarily at least, to revive the fires of enthusiasm.

Meanwhile, news is being awaited as to the attitude of the French and British governments and also as to the reports that the ex-ruler will attempt to reach Greece and present to the allies the accomplished fact of his restoration.

Queen Mother Olga has issued a message to the people announcing that she was assuming the regency "in the absence of my well-beloved son, Constantine."

SIXTH N. D. BANK CLOSES

BISMARCK, N. D.—The State Bank of Bantry, at Bantry, McHenry county, was closed today, according to announcement Saturday night by State Bank Examiner O. C. Loftus. This is the sixth North Dakota bank to close this week.

GRAFT HINTED AT IN SHIPPING BOARD INQUIRY

Allegations Tending to Implicate Men Now on U. S. Board Is Made at the Hearing

PRESIDENT'S BROTHER-IN-LAW IS NAMED AS A PARTICIPANT

Payments for Favors Described as "Loans" Made by Shipbuilding Company

NEW YORK.—Allegations tending to implicate men now and formerly connected with the United States shipping board with alleged collusion in securing contracts for the Wallace Downey Shipbuilding company of New York, were made here today by Tucker K. Sands, a witness before the Walsh committee investigating shipping board affairs.

The men named and alleged to have participated in a distribution of more than $30,000 were E. W. Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson and now treasurer of the shipping board; Lester Sisler, formerly secretary of the board; John Cranor, a representative of the Downey Shipbuilding company, and Sands himself. He testified that he received the money in the form of "notes" some of which he discounted, and at different times described payments to Bolling and Sisler as both "payments" and "loans." In another part of his testimony he asserted that the money was to be understood as a commission to him for securing a loan from the bank to the shipbuilding company, with which the witness was then connected.

The testimony of Sands was predicted by that of Alfred W. McCann, a reporter for the New York Globe, who swore he had secured from Sands an affidavit detailing the entire transaction. McCann further testified that when he took the affidavit to Sands for him to sign he declined to do so, on advice of his attorney.

Previous to submitting the affidavit for Sands' signature, however, McCann said he had taken the document to the shipping board and had it photographed. One of these copies carrying notations in what was testified to be Sands' handwriting, and which Sands afterwards testified to being "correct except that some of the facts may be a little different," was presented by McCann as evidence.

The document, however, was not made a part of the stenographers minutes of the hearing. Questioned by Chairman Walsh and Congressman Kelley, Sands said he did not think Bolling ever got a cent from anybody for aiding to get a contract—that money given him was a "loan." At another time he stuck to the statement that Bolling was to get his share of the transaction—that he "gave Sisler $5,000"—and that he had loaned Sisler for one of his companies $5,000 on his note, which note he still has. He said he had never had any controversy with Bolling and was on friendly terms with him. He also mixed into his testimony details of a purchase by him from Bolling of a lot for $900.

Allowed Company to Overdraw

Sands testified he was now under indictment "for allowing a company to overdraw—a shipping company in which I was interested."

He testified that he was then connected with the Commercial National Bank of Washington, "as its cashier." He also testified he had endeavored without success to secure Mr. Bollings' influence to have this settled. "This document says," Chairman Walsh informed the witness, referring to the photo-state, "that $40,000 is to be divided among two in the following manner: $25,000 to be paid in one lot and equally divided in the sum of $5,250 for each of the four of us—Sisler, Bolling, Cranor and myself." "Mr. Cranor was to shares in this commission, too, was he?"

"Yes, sir."

"The representative of Mr. Downey?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you say 'during the negotiations Mr. Downey came to Washington. He ratified the agreement whereby $40,000 compensation was to be paid?"

"I think I did," the witness replied.

Sands said he introduced Cranor to Bolling and Sisler. He testified to receiving the notes from the representative of Downey, but added there was one thing he "would have to look up," referring to the photostate document, "and that was whether I paid Mr. Bolling any of the proceeds of these notes."

"Don't you know you never paid him?" Mr. Walsh asked.

"I do not recall that I did pay him on this deal. I do not think I did."

Sands then testified he had purchased a lot from Bolling and that he still owed Bolling $900. He also testified to asking Mr. Bolling to intercede for him with the department of justice to get the case against him brought by the bank out of the department of justice. Mr. Bolling had refused, he testified.

"So Mr. Cranor came to Washington and had several conferences with you and Mr. Bolling and Mr. Sisler?" Chairman Walsh inquired.

"Yes, sir," Sands replied.

Brought Parties Together

"And you were to use your influence with these two gentlemen?"

"I simply introduced them—that's all. I simply brought the parties together."

"What were you to get money for—this introduction?"

"Well, I suppose—that is what I thought at the time."

He said Mr. Downey "insisted" that the ostensible consideration for these notes should be for services of Sands in procuring a loan for Downey. He said he did procure a loan for Downey amounting to $100,000, which, he said, was "very favorable for the bank—that it was to be left on deposit."

Sands testified that in all he received in the form of notes from Downey $30,—

FINE LUNCHEON IS SERVED BY LADIES OF RUSHFORD GUILD

The Woman's Welfare League Holds Interesting Meeting at Public Library

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special)—Last Wednesday afternoon, the Parish House was the meeting place of numerous Rushfordites and others who came to enjoy the delicious lunch served by several ladies of the Guild. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames Thomas, Zilley, H. V. Olson and Miss Helen Smith. These gatherings are always welcome affairs as the Parish House furnishes a very comfortable and cozy place in which to meet for a chat and the homelike atmosphere draws many out to the luncheons. As usual, a large number was present during the hours of serving.

The last regular meeting of the Women's Welfare League of Rushford took place at the Public Library last Tuesday afternoon, at the usual hour. Two very able speakers were the guests of the League for the afternoon; they being Mrs. Cordineir, of St. Paul, a member of the nutritional clinic of the State University of Minnesota, who spoke at some length upon the need of co-operation of state workers and the people for whom they arranged the various departments of research and aid; also of the crying need of many—both in town and the rural districts—for better ways of arranging their daily work, of getting the most from each and every part of the home and farm. The second lady Mrs. J. W. Young, of Preston, is the executive secretary of the Fillmore Co. Red Cross. Mrs. Young gave a most comprehensive talk concerning the different phases of her work and opened the eyes of many to the pressing need of just such work as she is doing in the county; she being the Welfare Worker who cooperates with Mrs. Lund, our county Red Cross Nurse, in the matter of aiding any and all families in the county to make the most of their opportunities and talking over with them the matter of finances, etc. Many pathetic instances were given by Mrs. Young, most forcibly illustrating the circumstances which hamper many who do not know how to manage properly. After these two ladies' talks, several songs were sung by all present and the meeting was adjourned until two weeks from that day.

A very successful basket sociable was held at the school house in the Rember Johnson district, recently when Miss Bernice Otis, the teacher, together with her pupils, put on a fine program of speaking, readings and music. Baskets were sold by the "shadow plan" whereby the purchaser of a basket must "purchase" a shadow thrown upon a screen and with the owner of the shadow, eat the contents of the basket she furnished. Much merriment ensued upon auctioneering the shadows and the evening was greatly enjoyed by the large number present.

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church of this city, met at the home of Mrs. W. M. McLeod, last Thursday afternoon, a very interesting program being heard. A large number attended and enjoyed both program and the lunch which was served.

The relatives and other friends of Mrs. George Bagley, nee Miss Olga Foss, formerly of Rushford, are enjoying a visit with that lady and her two children; they having arrived from their home in Strool, S. D., a short time ago.

The E. E. Gray home of this city, has recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fish of Woodstock, Ill., the gentleman being a cousin of Mrs. Gray.

Oscar Erickson, traveling salesman, but who still calls Rushford his old home, came down from his headquarters at Duluth this week to be present at the funeral services of Mrs. Halvor Medhaug, who was for many years a neighbor of Mr. Erickson's people, in Brooklyn.

Miss Ida Grinager, who has been spending some months at Starbuck, Minn., will remain in this city for the coming winter with her father, Mr. A. Grinager.

Owen McDermid, who is employed in Chicago, is the guest of his mother, Mrs. A. McDermid, of North Rushford and other relatives here.

The sociable held under the joint auspices of the Women's Missionary Society and the Sunday School of the First Presbyterian church, of this city, was largely attended and proved a great success, both socially and financially. Various mirth-provoking "stunts" were played and a short program of reading, speaking, etc., enjoyed. Lunch was served.

Miss Leone Schoonover spent the week-end with friends at Winona; former schoolmates of hers at Byron, Minn.

"NAKED EAR" SHOCKS THEM

CHICAGO—Another bit of feminine immodesty is creating a stir. Chicago claims to have originated the new fashion. New York says it doesn't think much of it. The naked ear, of course. Haven't you seen the new style yet. Look at Cyrena Van Gordon, prima donna of the Chicago Opera Company, unblushingly having her picture taken with an undressed ear. So long hidden behind "biscuits" of hair, milady now reveals her ears—if she is up to date.

Somewhat Hard to Believe

In the department of Seine-et-Marne, France, some years ago a picture of a cow she was herding was printed on a peasant girl's breast by a flash of lightning. The cow was killed, but the girl recovered. An Italian sailor killed by lightning as he sat near the mast, had upon his back a print of a horseshoe that was nailed to the mast.

New England Colloquialism

A colloquialism in frequent use, not only in rural communities, but in New England generally, is "at that." It is employed to express merit where none might be presumed, as "he's lazy but a decent chap 'at that.'" "He's up and coming" is an expression familiar to every New Englander, and its meaning is synonymous with the fusiler's, "head up and tail over the dasher."

MEAT CONSUMPTION IN U. S. DECREASED

Swine Growers' Association Denounces Unfair Propaganda Against Meat

CHICAGO. — Something has reduced the price per capita consumption of meat in this country in the past year, W. J. Carmichael, secretary of the National Swine Growers Association said here, discussing the "Eat More Meat" movement he is endeavoring to get under way. He has called a meeting of livestock producers, livestock exchanges and packers for Chicago Dec. 2.

At this conference he proposes to enlist all interested in establishing a national organization to act as a clearing house for meat men's difficulties of this nature. Among these is what Mr. Carmichael terms unfair propaganda against meat.

"Vegetarianism is making some headway in certain sections," Mr. Carmichael said, "but a large part of the decrease in meat eating appears due to the use of meat substitutes. These have been encouraged by advertising. We don't object to people using substitutes, but we feel it very unfair for them to be led to do so, as in some cases, by misleading comparisons with meat values."

Reports of working men receiving high wages developing into large meat eaters Mr. Carmichael said held true only in some districts, such as Gary, Ind. Meat consumption for the country as a whole fell off 8 pounds per individual in the last year, he said.

ESSEX MOTORS

An Essex Advantage That All Acclaim

The distinction of performance which rates the moderate-priced Essex among the fine cars of the world is by no means confined to its greater speed, acceleration and hill-climbing ability.

Official proofs remove its supremacy in those qualities from debate. No car of its motor size ever matched them. Some of its marks were never equalled by any car, regardless of size, price or type.

Thus Essex Takes Rank With the Greatest Cars

Yet if one quality, more than another, causes men to link Essex in merit with the costly cars, it is its ease of motion, and elastic smoothness in action, which have no counterpart among light cars.

That is the enchantment Essex owners admit they value next to its reliability. Even long association they say does not dispel the impression of riding in a large car.

We know in all candidness that few men ever have call for such speed and power as Essex possesses. Yet no owner mistakes it for useless surplus. This excess ability is valued chiefly because it does the ordinary task without effort. And because men like to have capacity that can meet exceptional calls for power, speed and acceleration, with an ease and absence of strain that brings no concern as to its accomplishment.

The satisfaction and enthusiasm of nearly 50,000 owners contents us to leave the judgment of the Essex in their hands.

"NOT FINISHED, BUT BEGUN"

"GOOD School Week" is over.

It would been better had it been called, "Better School Week".

It would have been best to call it, "Best School Week".

"Good School Week" expresses rather too well an attitude which has done its part in keeping our schools mediocre. It is a dangerous phrase. It carries the suggestion that if we make ours "good schools", we may fold our arms. It may even be interpreted as a boast that we have "good schools". It fails to give breath to that ambition to have the "best schools" without which our schools can not improve as they should. School authority which is satisfied with "good schools" is comparable with the student whose ambition rises no higher than "B". The student who is disappointed with "B-plus", whose ambition is satisfied with nothing less than "A" and a consciousness of deserving it, is the one upon whom the taxpayer's money is well spent. The public purse is sometimes too conservative, but the best way to get from it the price of an "A" school system is never to be satisfied with a "B" school system. Of course the real point is that, in general, "B" school systems beget "B" scholarship, while "A" school systems beget "A" scholarship.

After a disinterested and not entirely inadequate examination high national school authority has marked the Wisconsin school system, not "B", but "C", which is next thing to "flunking". And no matter what may be said of the many local exceptions, and of elements of innacuracy and injustice, as long as Wisconsin school authority's reaction to this situation is to tear up the examination papers, we shall be in more or less danger of being "conditioned".

It will be suspected that the name "Good School Week" reflects the attitude of state school authority. Perhaps it suggests to the professional teacher the idea of some remedy needed. But its psychological effect upon the public is its worst fault. Perhaps it is a negative fault. Its implication to the people is that we have good schools, or that we need and desire good schools. It fails utterly, as a slogan, to carry to the public the teachers' message of an urgent need of better schools, always aiming at the best, and then to make the best better. It is the phrase of satisfaction, or mediocrity, and lacking all inspirational fire, it fits our Wisconsin experience with painful significance.

The three great factors in establishing the quality of education in any commonwealth are leadership, system and resources, and in passing it may be observed that system tends to conform itself to leadership, and resources to respond to leadership, so that leadership finds imperfect defense either in the deficiencies of system or the shortage of resources.

It must also be observed in passing that a blanket indictment of a state's school system is bound to contain elements of injustice. Excellent school equipment, administered by a strong teaching staff, may fail because of the inadequacy of the course, or the failure of general attendance. Many Wisconsin schools are doing the best work with that portion of the district's school population which presents itself. In others teachers are performing wonders with poor equipment and inadequate staffs. Undoubtedly many city systems are acquitting themselves with great credit, their handicaps taken into consideration, nor does one doubt the existence of exemplary schools in the state of Wisconsin. But we must not reason from the particular to the general; rather we must take the average level of the state's school efficiency as the basis of judgment.

So much for "what's in a name", and what's back of it. The abundantly cheering fact is that the teachers of most Wisconsin cities saw the possibilities of a week devoted to school introspection and expression, and have made it a message of progress to beat upon the ears of the people. In a way, they gave an accounting, but it was illustrative, and reassuringly modest. Aims were set forth, methods and policies displayed, and everything possible done to win the interest of the public and fire the purpose of public servants. To them today's work was but tomorrow's stepping-stone, and their stewardship revives faith in them as the most devoted, self-sacrificing group consecrated to the higher service of our American democracy.

It is good to appreciate their understanding, and the following comment is but the echo of their thought and spirit flung back by the splendid effort they have made.

The world is a giant just emerging from the slumber of ignorance. Pope assures us that, "A little learning is a dangerous thing". We are at the danger point. Men generally have learned enough to be keenly conscious of wrongs and spirited about their rights. But the times lack evidence that man in the mass possesses the proper sense of proportion. Rights and wrongs are taken as individual things. The sense of obligation to the community is not safely developed. Great movements tend to proceed emotionally, instead of intelligently. Man centers on the take of life, and ignores the give. Democracy gave us the right of self government. Education must give us the ability to govern ourselves well. We must see how important this is. We know that government is imperfect, but since we are the government, we can improve government only as we improve ourselves as a people, only as we develop and cultivate our natural powers—and this is education. Laws may restrain or direct by the warrant of authority, but excepting as they tend to create custom or habit, they do not remedy. The only real remedy for social evils is education, broadened to a spiritual significance. The real pursuit of a people is its social well-being, and to this alone is honest government devoted. And so true progress depends upon a common understanding that education's essential task is social welfare.

Here we come to the necessary attitude. It should not be one of satisfaction, but of dissatisfaction. As long as there exist genuine causes of dissatisfaction with the state of our being, we must continue to be dissatisfied with our educational progress, for the one is a measure of the other. We must demand more education, better education, more generally distributed education. How shall we secure it?

We must first take stock of our resources and methods. We want the best kind of education. We want sufficient means with which to purchase it. We want every dollar of this money to be spent to the best possible advantage.

To attain these results we should have the right inspiration at a single fountain head. That would go to the quality of education. We want inspiration and authority together, so that the latter may not balk the former. We want education considered as a whole, with its branches springing outward as natural growths, instead of as separate plants competing for the same soil, air and space, and each hampering the others' growth. We want a common policy to which every branch contributes the fruit it is fitted to bear, not conflicting purposes constantly at loggerheards. We want a businesslike administration of funds, with a minimum of waste and cross purposes. In other words, we want inspiration, policy and administration worked into a logical system based upon proportionate usefulness, needs and resources, and directed to the improvement and diffusion of education along lines best suited to promote the social welfare of the commonwealth.

It is well that educators are seeking to impress upon the public the common importance to all of the problems of education. They are studying what we have done, what we possess, with a view to doing and possessing the best. They are searching our present system of systems for flaws, seeking remedies, and attempting to take the public with them in their quest for better ways and more ample means. They are making progress. They are winning that popular support for public officials, such as aldermen, commissioners and legislators, with which the latter will be encouraged to liberality. Organized labor, as represented by the American Federation, has awakened to the importance of the movement for more and better education, and stands squarely back of intelligent development of the public schools. The spirit of progress is abroad. The program is well laid. "Good School Week" has done its part. Make every day a "Better School Day" in home and street and church and school, in city council and state legislature, and soon Wisconsin will be known as the "Best School State".

WOMEN KNOW

IT is exactly in the nature of things that the American Legion should undertake to sponsor the county canvass for the Salvation Army maternity home in Wisconsin. Service men of all sorts know that they have an account of gratitude to square with the Salvation Army. They think of the girls who shooed flies away from the doughnut pot while shells pelted the landscape, who marched with them and Death and were not afraid. They will not soon forget the smiling disciples of mercy who were ever at the heels of their charging columns, and wouldn't obey orders to get back out of danger. When the Salvation Army wants to put something across you would be rather surprised than otherwise if the service men were not helping with the job.

But this thing that the Salvation Army is undertaking in the state is not simply a matter between the organization and the service men. The community, and particularly the women, one believes, will be interested in assuring it of success. It is a work of compassion and rescue for unfortunate members of their own sex which cannot fail to appeal to all that is tender and womanly. It is to bring relief and hope into a dark corner of the world in which women have suffered age-long agony and disgrace. It is the opportunity for a practical demonstration of the moral value of good women in attacking the inertia of evil which centuries of male domination have neglected. Pre-eminently it is a cause to command the service and devotion of women.

One is glad that the energy and enthusiasm of the American Legion has been enlisted for the Salvation Army's project. But if the service men will permit a word of counsel to insure the success of their undertaking, we urgently recommend that they take their mothers and wives and sisters into partnership. They will feel that the job is one in which women have even more than men owe their best efforts. Women have long arrears of decency and humanity to straighten out with the world in such matters.

Talks on Citizenship

By D. O. Kinsman Ph. D.

Questions of general interest pertaining to civics and economics will be answered in these columns. Kinsman, Lawrence College, Appleton, Wisconsin.

THE NEW CITIZEN

THE NEW CITIZEN

Democracies are young when compared with monarchies and aristocracies. Ours is the oldest of democratic states and it is only one hundred thirty-one years of age. Others have, by the score, followed our example. As these changes have been taking place the patriots have been obliged to take up arms at a moment's notice in order to defend their government against attacks from opposing monarchies and aristocracies. But the World War has settled the issue. Democracies will control the affairs of the future. They need no longer fear the foes from without, but they must strengthen their vigil against foes within.

Knowledge cannot be accepted as a passport to the new citizenship. No longer can we receive into the patriotic ranks, the person simply possessed of a general education. And he who possesses a special knowledge of our government is not, because of that fact, to be admitted. Many a person, well informed regarding our governmental organization, has found his way to the penitentiary, and many another is at large because his knowledge has enabled him to evade the law. No general education or special information can provide the citizenship essential to the success of the democracies of the future.

There must be a broader and clearer understanding of what constitutes a true patriot. The new citizen must realize that his whole person including his physical, his intellectual and his moral nature, must be dedicated to the highest interests of the state. He must appreciate the fact that duties precede rights, and that rights are not natural and inalienable. Unless he is a law abiding citizen his life or his liberty or his property can be and will be taken from him.

The day has arrived when it is the acknowledged duty of every citizen to make the most of his God-given qualities. He is in duty bound to make his body the strongest and healthiest possible. The state is rightly interested in what he eats and drinks and wears, and the diseases and dangers to which he exposes himself. He should develop his mind, making it clear and keen and capable. It should be not only well disciplined and cultured but stored with useful knowledge.

The spiritual nature must be developed to the point of appreciating the highest and best things in life. Unless one is possessed of the proper moral balance he can neither make the most of himself nor can he properly participate in the affairs of government.

When the citizen performs his great duty of making the most of himself and providing others and opportunity to do the same then, and not until then, is he entitled to his rights. The right to life is justified only when he makes the most of it. Liberty of person is guaranteed him because in freedom of action he is able to develop his God-given nature most fully. Freedom of thought and expression provide the best possible means of intellectual development. Unrestricted religious worship provides the greatest possibilities for spiritual growth. Private property provides a most effective means of self-expression. Rightly used it is a powerful means for developing the best in the owner as well as in his fellows.

The new citizen will place duties before rights. By constantly striving to make the best of his powers he will earn his rights, rights which are made sacred by the use to which he puts them. Centuries of experience have proven that these rights can be guaranteed only by one institution—the state. Many others have tried to perform this great function but all others have failed. Realizing that the individual can make the most of himself only when his life is protected and freedom of thought, and of religion are guaranteed, and the rights of private property assured, the citizen of the future will be most loyal to the democratic state which most perfectly guarantees these rights. He will doubtless see occasion for reform but these reforms will be made in accordance with law and order and justice, not by force.

The new citizen will be a true patriot because he will see that his government of, by and for the people provides to each individual the opportunity to make the most of himself, physically, mentally and spiritually. May every true American possess the vision.

(One week from today Professor Kinsman will discuss "The Organization of Congress".)

No President

What would happen if both Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge should die before the meeting of the electoral college in January? E. C. S.

Answer

No provision is made for such an unhappy situation. But politicians would doubtless come to the rescue and in some way arrange to have the Republican electors agree upon a candidate for president and one for vice-president for whom all would vote.

BUSINESS SOUND IN LA CROSSE AS PRICES GO DOWN

Institutions Here Pass Through Readjustment Period Easily Says J. M. Holley

BANKS IN FINE CONDITION ABLE TO MEET ALL DEMANDS

This City in Far Better Shape Than Other Communities

That La Crosse and the rural territory surrounding this city will pass through the readjustment period with little industrial disturbance and with comparatively little suffering, is the opinion of John M. Holley, cashier of the State Bank of La Crosse.

"La Crosse banks are in fine shape to finance the business of the community," said Mr. Holley. "Everyone in business here entitled to credit is being taken care of adequately by the banks, which are meeting every demand without difficulty. The country banks in this district also are in splendid condition. Rural bankers in this locality are investing in short term commercial paper of the highest standing, and thus fortified, are in condition to meet any emergency without borrowing as heavily as banks do in some other sections.

Pass Crisis Easily

"The center of a wonderfully productive agricultural district, and enjoying a diversified manufacturing business, La Crosse is able to weather any industrial readjustment in fine shape. Prices undoubtedly are going downward, practically in all lines. I do not know when the bottom will be reached, or what the quotations will be when conditions again become normal, but do know that manufacturers, jobbers, retailers and consumers in La Crosse are taking their losses in good spirit. One hears little complaining about writing down of inventories in this community.

"Jobbing houses here are looking for an early winter revival of trade, although it may not attain any great proportions. Buying of goods is bound to commence when the products are needed, and this will be soon, in the opinion of many.

Expect Renewed Buying

"Many retailers in La Crosse find their stocks at a low ebb, and they will begin to buy soon. Brisk cold winter weather will help many lines. A warm fall has had a depressing effect on some lines of trade.

"One manufacturing company here is scheduled to be reorganized before spring, and it is expected will continue to manufacture its products here. While there will be some slackening in production in the woolen mills and some other plants during the readjustment period, a majority of the factories here will pass through the crisis easily."

SOME TOUGH CAVEMEN LEFT PRINT OF FOOT ON STONE IN IOWA

FERTILE, Iowa.—Thirty rods east of the old United Brethren church here, there lies a huge, flat boulder which measures fifteen feet in length and eight feet across at the widest point. Nearly in the center of the rock, there is seen the well-defined imprint of a human foot. From all over this state and many others, have come learned men whose speculations are rife as to the source from whence the boulder came and to what race of beings belonged the person whose foot made the imprint. The majority of scientists believe that the stone drifted southward during the glacial period, the footprint being made when the stone was in a plastic condition, ages ago.

NEWSBOY KNOWS 100,000 FACES

NEW YORK — John Joseph has made a fortune selling newspapers with his memory as well as his voice. He never forgets the face of a customer. He holds out the paper each man wants, too. He sells 2,500 papers a day and says he can guess four times out of five what paper a strange buyer wishes.

FOLLIES GIRLS COMING

Stronge and Franklyn's "Girls From the Follies" scheduled to appear at the La Crosse theater, Saturday night, Nov. 27th, is in every respect a show of quality embodying all the known elements of agreeable entertainment, and introducing several new ideas, which should prove both enlivening and refreshing to admirers of this form of irresponsible amusement.

It is claimed by the management that there is a dash of newness in the material contained in "Here and There" a two act play which the "Girls from the Follies" are offering for public approval.

Fred Binder is the principal comedian, and those who are at all familiar with his style of work require no further proof that the comedy falls into hands that are quite competent to bring many a hearty laugh.

Mr. Binder is supported by a talented cast, and patrons will undoubtedly recognize the names of the performers, they are Billy Kelly, Lew Howard, Theadore Murphy, Billy Walsh, Babe De Palmer, Mable White, Lucia Arnold, Pauline Graw and Mlle. Faustina the celebrated terpsichorean artist whose sensational Spanish Fandago has brought her both fame and fortune.

The speed-burning chorus of youthful prancers can be relied on to live up to the demands of modern musical plays. There are twenty of them, all bedecked in silk and finery from the tops of their shapely heads to the soles of their twinkling feet. It is quite exhilarating to watch them gallop through their numbers and ensembles with dash and lightheartedness, which is an indication that they enjoy their work behind the footlights.

PARADE IS FEATURE OF VIROQUA'S FIGHT FOR ANOTHER SCHOOL

VIROQUA, Wis.—With banners bearing the slogans "We Need a New Schoolhouse" and "We Need More Room and Teachers," every pupil of the Viroqua public schools marched in a parade on Thursday afternoon through the Main street of the city. They were accompanied by the teachers. For several years the city has been badly in need of another school building and an overcrowded condition exists in nearly every grade. An extraordinary large enrollment for the fall term, has made it nearly impossible to house all the children properly.

HUNTING THIS CITY FROM AIR HE LANDS IN EAST DUBUQUE

Harry Johnson, air mail pilot on the Chicago-La Crosse-Twin City route, spent Friday night in East Dubuque as a result of losing his way in the clouds Friday while hunting for La Crosse.

Johnson failed to show up at the air-field here on schedule Friday, and some fears were felt for him and his ship until he wired that had lost his way and finally came down at East Dubuque when he caught sight of the landing field there. He reported that he was practically out of gasoline when he made the landing.

The big De Haviland left Saturday morning for St. Paul, and made the trip without mishap.

NEED BIG SPACE FOR STATE CORN AND GRAIN SHOW

Assistant Secretary Holden of Madison Tell of Importance of Meeting Here

"The state corn and grain show to be held in La Crosse in January will be the biggest ever seen in Wisconsin," said E. D. Holden, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin State Experiment association, in this city Saturday making arrangements for the annual exposition.

"We are preparing for just twice the space formerly utilized at the state show, for the exposition here."

Two buildings will be utilized, arrangements having been made for exhibits to be arranged in the Chamber of Commerce and Elks lodge room.

Mr. Holden devoted his time in La Crosse Saturday largely to the task of arranging the final details of the premium list. Six thousand copies of this premium list, a booklet of 24 or 25 pages, will be sent out to farmers in three states in advance of the show here.

One of the big events of the state corn and grain show will be a public meeting at the La Crosse theatre the night of January 28. A speaker of national reputation will give an address and motion pictures will be shown.

Agar-Agar is Now a Home Product

Agar-Agar is a gelantinous substance which is especially valuable as a culture medium for bacteria and it is also used as a thickener for jellies. It has great food value, and last year we imported 250 tons of it from Japan, where it is made from a seaweed which is superior to the Japanese growth for the manufacture of this material and as a result we are now making our own agar-gar. A plant for this purpose was recently established at Glendale near Los Angeles, Cal. Agar-agar is worth about $1.25 per pound.

THINGS MUSICAL

By H. MARGARET JOSTEN

Edna Gunnar Peterson, pianist, who is to appear in a joint recital with Cecil Burleigh here on November 20 is so modest that La Crosse hears little of her achievements either of the years before this city could claim her or since she has taken up her residence here. She has appeared only twice in formal recitals in La Crosse, last season in one of the concerts of the Music Study club course and the year before with Rudolph Ganz.

Other cities have been more fortunate. Particularly interesting to her La Crosse friends are the criticisms that appeared in Chicago papers and the musical journals after her appearance there as soloist with the Zoellner quartet last spring. Maurice Rosenfeld of the Daily News was delighted with the "clean, mechanical deftness and imaginative charm." "She is," said he, "a dainty, young concert artist, and her playing pleased so well that she gave her best piece, the E major Paganini Caprice arranged for piano by Liszt, as an encore." Edward A. Moore of the Journal said she was "personally and musically a bright spot on the programme. She very justly received a vigorous encore." The Musical Leader's comment was that "she has always been classed with the best of the younger pianists, and her playing on this occasion justified the good things said of her."

Miss Peterson and Mr. Burleigh first appeared upon a program together at Lockport, New York last fall. The occasion was the great All American Musical Festival at which only American-born artists may appear and all compositions performed must be the work of American composers. Through Miss Peterson's acquaintance with Mr. Burleigh the Music Study Club has been able to secure what promises to be a very interesting recital for their La Crosse patrons.

* * * *

A musical paper of the early fall made record of the fact that Cecil Burleigh, composer-violinist originally engaged for three musicales at the Hotel Warren, at Spring Lake Beach, New Jersey, achieved so striking a success that he was engaged for a fourth and fifth recital. On each occasion he was assisted by some other distinguished musician. Upon every appearance Mr. Burleigh was received with flattering enthusiasm by the audience. Though his programs were composed of a wide selection of compositions for violin ranging from Sarasate to Kreisler no one was greeted with more sincere delight than his own exquisite little poem "Hills" which he was forced to play again and again so insistent was the audiences' demand.

* * * *

Could America still produce a true American folk music if her children were encouraged to express themselves unselfconsciously in song? Or have we as a race leapt forward into a premature development which can only produce formal types of musical composition?

A little boy sauntered up Mississippi street the other evening after supper. He was singing at the top of his lungs. The tune, very evidently an improvisation of his own, was by no means without melody. From a distance one could catch only an occasional word, "bread", and again "pie." But as he drew nearer this much of his extemporaneous lines became clear.

"I had milk,
Mother had tea.
I like onions
But they don't like me."

In a well-beloved collection of French folk songs there is a little song which chants no less informally.

"Oh say what shall we eat?"
"Partridge and tender quail
And the brown honey-cake sweet."

Sixty-six per cent of all the high school teachers in the United States are women.

PAULO GRUPPE CO. PRESENTS PLEASING MUSICAL PROGRAM

Second Entertainment in Course Given by American Legion Proves Enjoyable One

BY H. MARGARET JOSTEN

The Paulo Gruppe company presenting the second program of the American Legion course gave La Crosse a very enjoyable evening of music. Mr. Gruppe is a first rate cellist and a thorough-going musician. Technical difficulties he met with disdain, his cello's tone was rich and full. The Origo Serenade which he gave as an encore was sensuously southern in emotion and much appreciated by the audience. The Papillon of Popper, the last number of the program, was exceptionally successful in creating a picture of a type that though natural to a violin would seem impossible to an instrument with the depth of a cello.

Camille Plasschaert, in private life Mrs. Gruppe, gave two violin groups. She was at her best in the light, dainty passages. She is evidently well taught and and the Kreisler numbers for example were rather well-done but one could wish she possessed more dash and abandon.

Several tenor solos were very pleasantly done by Robert Monaghan. In spite of the fact that he had a hard cold his voice had a nice quality and was well controlled. The encore, Irish Girl, was bright and took particularly well with the audience.

As accompanist Gladys Corey Smith deserves much credit for the success of the program. Her work was faultless and deserved a piano of far better quality than the one she was forced to use.

NORMAL FOOTBALL TEAM DINNER GUEST OF BOOSTER CLUB

The members of the Normal school football squad were guests of the Booster club of the Normal at an informal dinner party Saturday evening. The dinner, which was prepared and served by members of the club, was given in the domestic science rooms of the school. After dinner the guests were entertained by a program of speeches and musical selections. President Cotton, Coach Keeler and Captain Schrader praised the work of the football team. William Glusbrenner, president of the Booster club, illustrated the value of clean athletics. "Max" Baudin represented the second team on the list of speakers. Leon F. Beery gave two vocal solos which were very much enjoyed by the audience. Miss Viola Stewart concluded the program with two piano solos which were well received.

"I do not think Bolling got any of it," Sands said.

"Why didn't he get it?"

"Because he would not take it," Sands replied.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO BE AWARDED NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

STOCKHOLM. — President Woodrow Wilson will be awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1920, according to the Swedish newspapers. The announcement of the prize committee, however, will not be made before the end of November.

The inter-parliamentary socialist group in the riksdag, including Hjalar Branting, the socialist leader, decided last January, according to dispatches from Stockholm, to recommend to the Norwegian storthing Nobel committee that it support President Wilson and Christian Lange, secretary of the inter-parliamentary union, as the candidate for the 1919 and 1920 Nobel peace prizes. The last peace prize, in 1917, was awarded to the International Red Cross committee of Geneva.

GALLERY TOUR OF ART EXHIBIT THIS AFTERNOON

All interested citizens are invited to a gallery talk this afternoon on the current collection of paintings which the Art Association is showing at the Chamber of Commerce. The talk, given primarily for a group of Onalaska visitors, will be given by Mrs. C. K. Pertingill, who has conducted several gallery tours for the association at previous exhibitions.

The art exhibit will be open this afternoon from 2:30 until 5:30 o'clock.

Directors of the association announced Saturday evening that the attendance at the exhibit during the week was beyond expectations. The pictures will probably be sent from the city during the coming week, so that all who can attend on Sunday are urged to do so.

Military Is Active In County Cork; Hunt Sinn Feiners

LONDON.—The Globe said on Saturday that great military activity is reported in Ballydehob and Schull in County Cork, Ireland. Many troops armed with rifles and machine guns have left Skibbereen for the alleged purpose of rounding up members of the republican army the report states.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC SPREADS IN PORT AU PRINCE

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti.—By The Associated Press.—A smallpox epidemic has broken out in Port au Prince and is spreading rapidly with 314 cases, all natives, in the general hospital. The occupation forces and the American colony have not been affected. It is estimated that more than a thousand other cases which have not yet been reported exist around the city. A request has been sent to Washington that 300,000 vaccine points be shipped here at once by a destroyer, as the need is urgent.

PENNSY CRUSHES COLUMBIA 27 TO 7 AT POLO GRUONDS

NEW YORK.—Pennsylvania crushed Columbia by 27 to 7 here today in the first game between the institutions in fifteen years. Before a crowd of more than 30,000 at the Polo grounds, Pennsylvania surged over the Blue and White defense, played brilliantly and scored their four touchdowns in the last three quarters.

THE WEEK

THE KIND OF BOSS

makes itself ridiculous. Uncle Sam is a fair jockey, but he can't play horse with the world without some sort of a cinch-bit.

* * * *

Murphy, Tammany leader, and Taggart, French Lick democratic boss, got together at San Francisco and decreed that the party's nominee should not be McAdoo. Under the two-thirds rule they blocked his nomination, and in the wee small hours of a weary morning they slipped Cox over on the exhausted convention. There was a little cheering, and Cox's Ohio band tooted up the street, but in half an hour the crowd had thinned to the size of an aldermanic rally, and the disgusted delegates were on their way home to the defeat which all knew awaited them.

Today Murphy is fighting to escape from the consequences of an indictment charging him with having falsified his income tax returns. When such influences dictate presidential nominations is it any wonder that government suffers loss of popular esteem?

CORN AND COAL

Nebraska farmers are said to contemplate the use of corn for fuel to meet the coal shortage. Corn is worth less than coal in the current market, and is credited with the greater heating capacity. Hoover tells us that in the old world 3,500,000 children are starving. The judgment day of coal monopolists may be deaf to the defendants' demurrer.

* * * *

MERIT AND POLICY

WASHINGTON gossip has it that the new president will be urged to appoint Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, a democrat, as secretary of war. As chairman of the senate military affairs committee the senator has familiarized himself with army matters. Possibly Harding may do so. Roosevelt, one recalls, named a democrat to this post. However, Senator Harding is apt to remember that as an advocate of universal compulsory military training Chamberlain has made himself enthusiastically disliked by the rank and file of Americans. The 1924 presidential campaign began about midnight, Tuesday, November 2, 1920, with several states still to be heard from.

SHIFT THE CART

The new Chicago police chief has solved the "clean-up" problem by making his crooked policemen exchange beats. No doubt they exchanged information as well. In metropolitan night-life a wink is as good as a bond. Once in a while our rotten big city administrations advertise a "take-up" of police who have been shaking down the vice profiteers, after which everything is merry and the goose hangs high. The public hears of the reformation and relaxes its vigilance, so "stick 'em up" and "shoot 'em down" remain in the loop vernacular. A recent report shows that Chicago and New York furnish more murders per year than the entire British Isles, and between terrorism and crookedness juries are generous with "the benefit of a doubt." As long as the "Big Bill" Thompsons remain in office, the "Big Bill" Haywards will do well.

* * * *

FARMS AND HOMES

Farms for farmers and homes for workers are among the great needs of the time. Increased cost of both has created an increased demand for credit. The worker who owns his home finds his citizenship rooted to the soil. When farm boys can buy farms on a small payment down the trend to the city will decrease, and the food production will be on the way to solution. This is everybody's business, but it must be solved through banking. Ordinary private banking can not afford the adventure. Government must do it. The farm loan banks have moved in the right direction, but with acreage so high, the first payment must be cut down. State legislatures will be forced to consider these matters. The Nonpartisan league program for Wisconsin touches upon the question, but its idea has not been presented in detail. The whole matter leads to new ground, and requires studious attention. However, men who see the relationship between irresponsibility and radicalism understand that we can not stand still. North Dakota, where they'll "try anything once," has taken an unfinished step. In Iowa last week farmers, bankers and the federal reserve bank directors met to talk over ways and means. Let's turn this idea over and have a look at its under-pinning.

authorizing him to enter into negotiations with E. F. Goltra, the contractor who has control of the barge fleet, to obtain at least one fleet of coal barges for La Crosse. The resolution was adopted.

Mayor Bentley said that from figures presented at the conference, a saving of at least $2.50 per ton in the freight rate on coal would be achieved.

Alderman Mahoney submitted a resolution asking for the revoking of the permit to the La Crosse Telephone company to string wires across the wagon bridge. Other utilities besides the La Crosse Telephone company are now using this line, and the representative of the Nineteenth ward said that it was a valuable right for which the city should receive compensation.

The council adopted the resolution, the understanding being that a schedule of rates for use of the bridge for wire carrying purposes be agreed upon with the utilities.

Following the wedding service, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's mother, where Mr. and Mrs. Garin will reside for the present. The bride has been a successful teacher, since her graduation from the Viroqua High School a few years ago. During the war she held a responsible government position at Washington, D. C. The groom was among the first of Vernon county boys to enlist in the great World War, and served until its close. He is employed as inspector in one of the large tobacco warehouses here.

Wednesday evening the Royal Neighbors were pleasantly entertained by the members of the Woodmen order, who came in a body to the Woodmen hall and completely surprised the Royal Neighbors, during the lodge session. Refreshments were served by the Woodmen.

The annual roll call of the Odd Fellows order will be given at the I. O. O. F. hall on December eleventh. The Rebekkahs and escort are also invited to attend. A banquet will be served followed by a program, cards and dancing. Odd Fellows who have been members of the order for a period of twenty-five years will be guests of honor.

At a meeting of the Rebekkahs, held on Monday evening, Miss Rose Olson was received into the order. Following the initiation degree work the guests were entertained at cards. The United Lutheran Bazaar and luncheon was held at the church parlors on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. George E. Fisher and son, Cheever, are guests of Mr. Leslie Fisher at Manitowoc. They will spend a few days at Antigo, before their return home, hunting deer.

Since shark fishing is so extensively done for the leather the shipment of shark fins to the Orient has become a great business. About five tons of fins are received every month and they are shipped mostly to China where they are regarded as a great delicacy commanding a good price. They must be very carefully prepared, however, the tail fins being rejected entirely. The latter have no market value whatever. The fins must be dried without salt.

ART OF READING MAY BE LEARNED BY APPLICATION

One Must Learn How to Get Full Measure of Enjoyment and Benefit from Books

LESSON OF GOOD SCHOOL WEEK POINTED OUT IN THIS PAPER

Interviews With Citizens Tell of Value of Education

In a democracy such as ours, public opinion is the court of last resort. Public opinion is formed more by the printed page than by any other agency. Written and printed communications have largely taken the place of oral directions or bargains. Important as oral reading may seem to be over ninety-eight per cent of all reading is done silently.

Silent reading is used in every walk of life. The lawyer must be an efficient reader. His ability as a lawyer depends to a considerable extent upon his keeness in interpreting laws, contracts, deeds, mortgages, and similar business instruments. The contractor and engineer must read accurately to interpret specifications and technical articles. So we might include all adults. Formerly the schools did not give training that would enable one to attain their maximum ability in securing information from printed matter. Most school reading was oral reading, and no definite training was given to increase the child's vocabulary and his ability to get thought from the printed page.

Reading has come to mean more than the mouthing ofw ords. The ability to pronounce words is not necessarily an indication of reading ability. Reading is above all things getting thought from the printed page whether it is done orally or silently. But the mere getting of thought from printed symbols is not sufficient. There must be an ability to remember the ideas read and many times to transfer the ideas gained to some one else or to put them into action.

Are you an efficient reader? Two factors enter into a measurement of your reading ability. First, your ability to grasp the content or to understand what you read; and second, your rate of reading. The question of reading efficiency may be reduced to this; of two readers, the reader who can read the largest amount in a given unit of time and whose comprehension of what he has read is the greatest and has the greater reading ability. Scientific investigations have proved conclusively that the rapid reader is usually the reader who gains the largest number of ideas from a printed page. The average adult's time for general reading is very limited. If he is to be well informed, it is essential that he be a rapid reader. Theodore Roosevelt was a rapid reader. One of the greatest sources of his power was his marvelous ability to master a book quickly. Some of his biographers credit him with having read a book a day even in his most "strenuous" days.

This is the Test

Can you read silently at the rate of three hundred and fifty words per minute and reproduce eighty percent of the ideas in the selection read? If you cannot, your difficulty may be due to one of the following:

That you move your lips when you read. In silent reading, the eye makes three or four sweeps across the page, pausing an infinitesimal second at what is called a "fixation point" at the end of each eye sweep. At this fixation point, the reader takes an "eye full" of words. In other words, the efficient silent reader reads by phrases not by single words. If you read with your lips, you pronounce each word and the eye is forced to focus each word at least once, thus slowing up your rate of reading. These eye habits become so firmly fixed in the adult that it is very difficult to change them—hence it is important that the child form the right eye habits.

That you point to the words while reading, thus slowing up your reading rate. Good readers pick up words with their eyes, not with their fingers.

That you do not concentrate on getting the thought while reading.

Reading under time pressure illustrates how much one can accomplish with absolute concentration. If you are able to read at the rate of 320 words per minute and retain 80 per cent of the ideas presented, you could master the average sized book in a few hours.

That you cannot adjust your reading rate and attitude to the various types of reading material.

It is often necessary to get a fact or an idea without reading every word of a selection. We skim the newspaper or the encyclopedia until we find the idea we are after. There is the easy reading of fiction and the careful reading of scientific material.

That some physical defect interferes with your reading ability.

Many time an adult is called upon to get certain facts quickly. How efficient are you? See if you can read silently and answer correctly the following paragraph in two minutes.

Aladdin's uncle said: "I will take a shop and furnish it for you." Aladdin was delighted with the idea, for he thought there was very little work in keeping a shop. He liked that better than anything else.

Draw a line under the word below that tells us what kind of a boy Aladdin was.

Industrious; ambitious; active; lazy; honest.

He was a wicked ruler who, with his still more wicked sons, oppressed and wronged the people in many ways.

If the people would be sorry when the ruler and his sons died, draw a line under the word ruler; if they would be glad cross out the word ruler.

ruler

Not far from Greensburg is a little valley among the high hills. A small brook glides through it, with just murmur enough to lull one to repose; and the occasional whistle of a quail, of tapping of a woodpecker is almost the only sound that breaks in upon the uniform tranquility.

What kind of a picture do you get from reading the above paragraph?

disorder; activity; noise; calmness confusion.

The soldier crawled out of the trench, where he had spent the night. He was covered with mud from head to foot, and almost frozen. He looked around at his companions. What a miserable lot they were! This, then, was the glorious war told about in the papers.

Draw a line under the word below that tells how the soldier felt.

happy; patriotic; brave; angry; downhearted.

The higher you go the colder the air is. Cold condenses moisture and causes it to fall as rain. The wind in our western states blows from the west across the Rocky Mountains.

Would you expect it to be dry or wet east of these mountains? If dry, draw a line under air, if wet, draw a line under rain.

air; rain.

It was cold, bleak, biting weather; foggy withal; and he could hear the people in the court outside go wheezing up and down, beating their hands upon their breasts and stamping their feet upon the pavement stones to warm them.

The author has attempted to give you a picture in this paragraph. If you think it is a picture of comfort and pleasantness, draw a line under the word here, if of cheerlessness and dreariness, draw a line under bleak.

Here Wind Bleak Cold.

If you are unable to pass the above test you may be interested in analyzing your reading habits and discovering your difficulty. Some of the following devices may help you to correct faulty reading habits:

If your reading rate is slow, stop all lip movement and try grouping a selection into phrases and making your eye take in a phrase at a sweep, i. e.

"Thomas Edison is one | of the very few men | of all time | who have devoted | their lives | to invention | as a profession."

If your reading rate is slow, reading under time pressure may help you. Set a time limit on the reading of a selection. Get the habit of reading rapidly instead of dawdling.

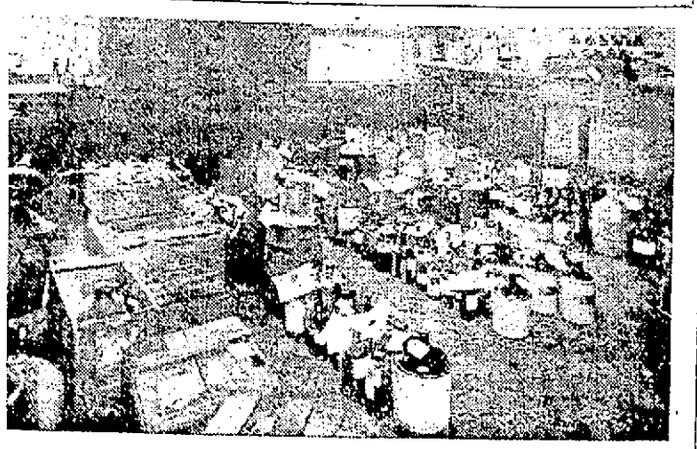

If you fail to comprehend or to retain the ideas which you read, try reading a short paragraph or selection and checking yourself on the number of ideas which you can remember.

The schools of La Crosse are attempting to give the boys and girls the type of training in reading which will be of most value to them in adult life. All reading is done for meaning from the beginning of the child's reading experience. Children in the first grade are learning to follow written and printed directions. After they have mastered the mechanics of reading, there comes a period of wide reading to increase the child's rate of reading, his fund of information, his understanding of other people, countries, and industries. Through this wide reading, the child not only becomes acquainted with life outside his own narrow environment, but he gains the power to use books and to gain information for himself. A very definite plan is followed in the grades to interest the children in books. A very large percent of the grade children are what we term "readers", that is, they read and report upon at least five books each semester. Last year there was an increase of forty per cent in the readers in the grades of the public schools. This indicates that our boys and girls are becoming interested in good books.

The children of the La Crosse Public Schools are measured in their ability to get thought from the printed page quickly and accurately. Standard tests having very definite standards for every grade in the school system set a goal not only for La Crosse schools but for all the schools. We may, by means of the standard tests, compare the reading ability of our boys and girls with that of the children of any other school system in the country.

An efficient reader seldom has difficulty in other school subjects, for the ability to interpret the printed page underlies all other study abilities. Last year in the reading test made in the high school, it was discovered that the pupils doing failing work in one or more high school subjects, that 61.9 percent of them were below standard in reading ability, which shows the large relationship of the ability to read and other high school work. Our American education is largely an education in reading.

EXHIBIT "A" IN LIQUOR CASES IN FEDERAL COURT

Some of the liquor seized.

A few of the stills confiscated.

Guarded day and night by special agents, a wealth of stills and liquor, confiscated by prohibition officials at various points in the western district of Wisconsin, is piled up in a room on the second floor of the federal building awaiting inspection by the United States grand jury, now in session here.

Home made stills of every conceivable type and description form the most interesting display in this collection of spoils seized by federal agents. Stills made out of wash-boilers, milk-cans, tea-kettles, tubs and cans of various size and shape, stills made according to approved plans out of solid copper, with coils of the same material and representing a substantial investment, are included in the exhibit.

Each one of these dozens of stills represents a separate and distinct violation of the prohibition act, the federal agents claim, and each still must be viewed by the grand jury in the consideration of a case.

Accompanying the stills are various bottles, jugs and geks of mash moonshine whiskey and other products alleged to have been made by the stills or found in the possession of dependants at the time the whiskey-making devices were seized.

In the northwest corner of the room is an exhibit of bottles and jugs of confiscated liquor, including home made brandies and whiskey, cordials and other intoxicants, high class bonded whiskey and bottles of practically every known intoxicant which formerly graced back bars in thirst-quenching emporiums.

The collection of confiscated stills and liquor represents the work of six federal agents operating in this district, during the past two months.

The federal agents in this district have been averaging one still per day in their seizures during the past few months.

INTERVIEWS

Personality is the expression of one's inheritance modified by his training. Training often dominates; inheritance is unchanging and unchangeable. To see, to feel, to know, to understand, to appreciate, to love maximally, to hate minimally may be ingrained attributes of the character noble by inheritance. This, however, is not the fortune of most of us. But the good in us enriched by the inspirations alive in education will carry the majority of even those of us of menial endowment over the low-lands of life and should make us aware of the joys in the obligations, and the opportunities found under the guidance of the lamp of education on the highlands.

To make others happier, to become happier ourselves are the criteria of the successful life. And if we can't feel the qualifications within us as fixed there by inheritance, let us endeavor to plant them broadcast through the seed of education.—Dr. A. A. Skemp.

Industry is constantly on the lookout for those capable of assuming responsibility. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the uneducated person is seldom chosen for promotion and one of the principal reasons therefore is his lack of confidence in himself. This confidence is not that born of complete information but is based rather on a knowledge of where and how to get information and when acquired how to apply it. Education begets this confidence, whereas, the average youth who drops out of school for reasons other than that of necessity practically admits he is a failure and the world regards him as unable or unwilling to complete what he has started and therefore unfit to assume responsibility.

Industry is anxious that the youth be taught the dignity and honorableness of all necessary labor; that the lowliest task about a factory bears a certain relation to successful operation just as does the planning of the highest paid executive. Accuracy in details and breadth of vision must also be taught, and students guided and trained for the work in which they are most proficient. Better relations between men and managment are bound to result from this sort of education for the effect in industry will be more efficiency, fewer misunderstanding, and fewer misfits.

May there be more and better education for all the people. — A. L. Myers, Works Manager, La Crosse Plow Company.

Although I am not speaking as one having authority, I do think every child who has the native ability, should be sent to the High School, but that there should be even greater stress laid on better teachers and better equipment, for all children through the ninth grade, or the first year of the High School.

If a young person shows that he wants a college education, he should have it, by all means, but the advantage of it should be withheld from the wasters and spendthrifts, and given to those who have ability and a desire to learn.—Fanny E. Sill.

Would I urge a child to go through high school? Yes, and I would send him to college, providing that the education thus received did not unfit him for the practical work in the world, nor make him feel that any labor, other than intellectual, was beneath him. I would suggest that if high school students put the same enthusiasm into their school work that they put into a football parade that the benefits derived from it would be much greater.

I feel the same way about a college education, that it should come to people only if, through that privilege of advanced work, they shall come out broader-minded men and women, better citizens, and more responsible members of the community. —C. J. Felber.

"A High School education is most important because it makes a person more fit to enter into the business life. It is not so much the amount of Latin, mathematics or any other subject that a person crams into his head as the benefits he reaps from so doing. After studying these four years his mind is naturally broadened and the training puts elasticity into the mind. Knowing all these subjects, enables one to find what he wants when he wants it. For instance, I have volumes of books here which I seldom touch, but if some question arises, I know just where to look for the answer at the time. In my business, the Physics which I learned while in high school has helped me immensely. Although I make practically no use of the Latin I had, I don't regret that I took it, because that isn't the idea; it's the mental training we are aiming at. In general, I think education is to the mind what the gymnasium is to the body." —Fred H. Hartwell.

Education, and its relation to the Florist Business.

As in many other but not all other industrial occupations, the florist can use people who have had no education. But to really succeed in this business, one must have an education.

A high school education is particularly desirable to the person who wishes to become a florist. The most important studies in the high school course for this business are Latin and botany.

Latin is very important because many of the plants and flowers have Latin names besides their common English names, and unless a person knows how they are pronounced and what they mean he is seriously handicapped if he wishes to converse successfully with a salesman who is handling these articles.

Botany is important because this study is the very foundation of horticulture. If an uneducated person attempts to plant and raise flowers, he is sure to meet obstacles such as plant diseases.

Not only these but all other high school studies are found beneficial and necessary in this occupation.—A Florist.

Saleslady—Yes, madam. Will you have it too tight or too short?—Life.

ENTIRE FAMILIES ACCOMPANY BABIES TO SEE CURLS FALL AT FIRST HAIRCUT IN SHOP

Mothers Weep While Children Laugh as Golden Ringlets Form Patterns on Floor of Children's Barber Shop in La Crosse

SNIP, snip, went the barber's shiny scissors.

Down tumbled handfuls of golden fluffy curls, scattering over the immaculate floor in a pattern like silky gold embroidery.

The 4-year-old boy in the barber's chair crowed with glee and caught at the shower of falling ringlets. In the glass in front of him he watched the emergence of his shorn head with a growing smile of satisfaction.

Seated facing the operation which was converting her curly headed baby into a "regular fellow," sat the young mother, weeping disconsolately. The youngster turned triumphantly from his pinnacle of importance as the last curl separated itself from his cropped head and cried light-heartedly, "What're you crying for, mamma? I'm having a good time!"

Families Bring Babies

This incident in the children's barber shop in Doerflinger's store is typical of the human interest dramas which are enacted there daily, according to H. Green, proprietor.

We have a new show every minute, said Mr. Green. "Mothers come to weep while baby boy's curls are cut before they start to kindergarten. Whole families, including the grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins, as well as father and mother, come up with babies to witness the first hair cut. We get them as young as eight weeks. This is primarily a baby's barber shop and is intended for children up to 14 years.

"The chair in which they get their hair cut is adjustable like those in a dentist's office or barber shop for grown-ups. Boys and girls who have reached the self reliant age of eight or more climb into the chair unaided, but the tots must be swung up by the barber's strong arms. This is part of the game, all of which is very fascinating to the youngest ones, from the time the big white apron is tied about their necks until they look into the mirror to observe the finished effect of the process."

Older Children Alone

It is only the older children who come to the shop alone. The younger ones are generally accompanied by several grown-ups.

"I have kept a record of visits to the shop, and found that every child on the average is accompanied by two adults," Mr. Green said. "Generally, the mother insists upon standing close beside her child while the cutting is in process. I sometimes have to ask a mother to go out where she cannot be seen in order to stop her child from crying. Many mothers, after the child is put into the chair, start everything wrong by such a remark as, "Now you're going to be a good little girl. You're not going to cry." Of course, that suggests crying to the child and consequently she starts doing it.

"The man in such a shop must have tact and ability to handle children and if let alone he invariably can make children laugh instead of cry. After a child has been here two or three times he cries to come back. Frequently children pass the shop with their mothers when they are downtown shopping and cry to be put in the chair.

"A children's barber has troubles all his own," confided Mr. Green. "A man who made good in the regular business might be a total failure in the children's shop.

All Must be Pleased

"In the first place, he has to please every member of the baby's family, particularly the mother. Mothers, we find, are as different as babies. The young mothers are particularly hard to satisfy, because they want us to turn out little angels or Raphael-like beauties. Ordinarily, it can't be done.

"Then they insist that the hair of their one or two-year-old babies is curly and want us to keep it so. This 'baby curl,' which all babies up to a certain age have, doesn't indicate that the child is going to have curly hair. If the hair is naturally curly, cutting will not spoil the curl, but most mothers do not understand that baby characteristics, including curly hair, may change radically when the child emerges into the childhood period at four or five years.

"Many a controversy between fathers and mothers is staged over their babies in the barber chair, particularly in the cases of little boys. The mother wants to keep her little boy a baby as long as she can by keeping his hair cut in the Dutch bob fashion while the father is impatient to make a 'regular boy' out of him. The mother always wins out with the argument that she can have her baby boy only three or four years, while he can have his hair cut in the other fashion all the rest of his life."

Mr. Green's shop has been in operation more than a year. The average attendance is from five to 30 a day.

"Less than one per cent of the children cry while getting their hair cut," said Mr. Green. "If one does cry, generally, we get reproved from a large number of self-appointed censors passing by the shop. Generally they are middle-aged spinsters who never have had any children of their own. We explain to them that the child's mother is there and can testify that we are not abusing the child."

PROGRESS SEEN IN "U" OF WISCONSIN EXTENSION WORK

Business Courses Found to be Most Popular Among the Students Enrolled

At the end of the year June, 1920, the university extension division carried forward an enrollment of 14,920 students, out of the 20,116 enrolled during the year. Of these 10,869 were men, and 4,051 women. This total has been augmented by new students enrolled since that time.

An interesting fact in this year's registration is that the Wisconsin soldier bonus law has enabled former soldiers now located in China, South America, Panama, Porto Rico, and England, to study correspondence courses of the university this year.

Business studies are the most popular of the many correspondence courses offered by the university of Wisconsin extension division. Of the total of 20,116 active students enrolled during the last year, 6,896, or about one-third, pursued business, vocational, or commercial courses, according to figures just prepared. This was an increase of over 2,000 over the preceding year.

Real estate, income tax, corporation finance, bonds and investment, salesmanship, secretarial work, scientific management, and government accounting were among the subjects presented in the business courses.

Engineering and industrial studies were next in demand. During the past year, 4,998, or 24 per cent, of the total number of students enrolled studied engineering by correspondence. This was an increase of about 2 per cent over the first year.

Social science studies enrolled 2,293 last year English, including an Americanization course and a course for foreign students, had 1,847 students. Mathematics had an enrollment of 1,661; physical sciences, 1,597, and foreign languages, 185.

CLEANING OF SNOW FROM HIGHWAYS OF STATE IS PROBLEM

State Highway Commission Plans to Prevent Drifts in Many Localities

An important step has been taken by the Wisconsin Highway Commission with a view to the eventual meeting of the snow cleaning problem on certain highways where there is a demand for it. A communication has been sent to all the county highway commissioners requesting that they make a survey as to the location of snow drifts during the coming winter with view to the taking of steps for the prevention of these drifts in the future. This is a constructive step in the right direction.

The Good Roads Association of Wisconsin, in a booklet just issued on the subject, gives the communication in full. The booklet calls attention to the fact that the snow cleaning problem is largely one of drift prevention and that the difficulty found on highways in normal winters results from drifts accumulating in certain spots. The first step to meet the problem, then, is the prevention of the drifts. With this in view, the Highway Department in its communication to the county highway commissioners suggests that this winter an accurate survey be made of snow drifts, their location, their length, and all other data regarding them. Accompanying the communication is a small map of the counties showing the roads which the Department believes of sufficient importance to justify the survey.

These surveys are to be made continuously during the winter. If the changing winds affect the location of the drifts, this is an important factor in determining the location of snow fences or snow hedges to prevent these drifts. With this data at hand, steps can be taken to provide for the planting of hedges and the building of snow fences in the future to prevent the drifts. When this has been done, half of the snow cleaning problem will have been solved.

FIVE BADGERS HAVE SERVED ON CABINETS OF U. S. PRESIDENTS

If Chosen by Harding, Esch Will Not be First Man in Wisconsin so Honored

STATE FURNISHED THREE POSTMASTER GENERALS

One Was Agriculture Secretary; One Secretary of Interior

MADISON, Wis.—If John J. Esch of La Crosse becomes a member of Mr. Harding's cabinet, he will not be the first Wisconsin man named. Five Wisconsin men have been chosen by former presidents: three as postmaster generals, one as secretary of agriculture, and one served as postmaster general and later as secretary of the interior.

Alexander W. Randall, a former lawyer of Waukesha and governor of Wisconsin from 1857 to 1861, was appointed as postmaster-general by President Johnson in 1866 and was in office up to the end of the administration in 1869. Previous to that time, he had served as minister to Italy and as assistant to postmaster-general Dennison.

President Arthur in 1882 appointed Timothy O. Howe of Kenosha, U. S. senator from Wisconsin from 1861, to 1879, as his postmaster-general. He died before his term was over, Feb. 25, 1883.

William F. Vilas of Madison was appointed as postmaster-general by Cleveland in 1885. He resigned in January 1888, to become secretary of the interior. The last office he held up to the close of the administration.

Mr. Vilas graduated from the University in 1858. He served during the Civil War and left the service as a lieutenant colonel. Later he became professor of law at the University. From 1881 to 1897 he was in the United States senate. He died at Madison, August 28, 1908.

Jeremiah M. Rusk of Viroqua, a brigadier-general of the Civil War and governor of Wisconsin was chosen as Secretary of Agriculture by President Benjamin Harrison in 1889. He remained in office through the four years.

The last cabinet officer to be chosen was Henry C. Payne of Milwaukee, a prominent business man and postmaster in the city from 1876 to 1885. Payne was picked by Roosevelt in 1902 but died, October 4, 1904 before his term was completed.

So far the state of New York has had a total of 42 appointments to cabinet positions; Pennsylvania is second with 31 appointments; Massachusetts, Ohio, and Virginia have also a large share of the cabinet members.

Of the Secretaries of Agriculture that have been appointed everyone has come from a state west of the Mississippi. Of the secretaries of the navy 37 have been from states bordering salt water and 4 from inland.

Twenty-two years in congress has been the record of Mr. Esch who has been mentioned as the probable secretary of commerce to be picked by Harding. He was chairman of the interstate commerce commission and with Senator Cummins was instrumental in securing the passage of the Esch-Cummins bill which returned the railroads to the owners.

It was probably this bill that lost him his seat in congress. The railroad men combined with the non-partisan leagners and the city of La Crosse and the country vote defeated him.

John J. Esch received his B. A. from the University of Wisconsin in 1882 and graduated from the law school in 1887. He taught school for a while; served for several years as city treasurer of Sparta, and has been an officer in the Wisconsin National Guard.

COSTS TOO MUCH TO GET EDUCATION BY EXPERIENCE ROUTE

(BY OTTO M. SCHLABACH)

Every boy wants to be able to meet the responsibilities that may come to him. He knows the best preparation for such responsibilities, whatever they may be, is a good education. He may get this education in school or out of school.

It is much better for him to try to get this education in school. Education by experience is too costly. It wastes too much time and energy, and money. It often takes months to learn something by experience, that a school teacher may impart to him in half an hour.

Men who have acquired their education by experience, know it is a bitter process. Henry Ford said, "By the time a man is ready to graduate from the University of Experience, he is apt to be too old to work." Why not take the word of men like Henry Ford? They know!

COMMON SENSE IS NAZIMOVA'S MOTTO—OFF THE SCREEN

Her Taste in Dress Simple—Music Her Hobby—Star Likes Our West

Despite the fact that she wears the most luxurious and gorgeous costumes when appearing in her screen productions, Nazimova in private life wears the most common sense dresses she can obtain. The great Russian actress, now appearing in "The Heart of a Child," a picturization of Frank Danby's novel, in her own household is the most model of sensible and economic dressers.

"Of course," she replied once to the question, "I like to dress my parts as they should be dressed. Off stage I do not care for them. I generally wear black, and the plainest, least expensive things."

Nazimova finds her recreation and relaxation from the strenuous work before the camera each day in music. On an evening after a particularly tiring day at her studios she will take her violin and play over some of the great Russian folk melodies of which she is particularly fond. Nazimova is an amateur violinist of no mean ability.

The rugged country of the west, with its vast stretches of open plains and its magnificent snow-capped mountain ranges, has appealed strongly to Nazimova because, as she confesses, it reminds her of her own native land of Russia. She has even bought a large estate at Laurel Canyon, near Los Angeles. But though the west reminds her of Russia she has no great desire to return to her native country.

The speed with which Nazimova, who is appearing in "The heart of a Child," mastered the English language is a remarkable sidelight on her character and a sensational record of its kind. When she arrived in this country in 1905 she knew but three English words.

When she remained here contracts were offered her if she would learn English. She undertook the task immediately, and within five months' time she did this with the instruction of a tutor, who worked with her for four hours a day.

Charles Arling, who plays the leading heavy role in the Edgar Lewis-Pathe feature, "A Beggar in Purple," suffers from chronic baseballitis. In his youth Arling killed his grandmother whenever necessary to get away to a ball game. How he ever missed out on being a baseball big leaguer is one of the mysteries of misguided destinies that can never be explained.

Edgar Lewis, producer and director of "A Beggar in Purple," is but recently the proud possessor of some Los Angeles real estate. In the fashionable Wilshire district of the photoplay metropolis, Mr. Lewis purchased the beautiful residence of multimillionaire, "Bob" Marsh.

Lewis Stone, former stock actor in Minneapolis and well known in La Crosse, has one of the principal roles in "Nomads of the North" showing at the Rivoli the last half of the week.

Constance Talmadge's next picture is 'Good References" and is booked for an early showing at the Rivoli.

She's The Star At The Casino

Nazimova returns to the Casino in a picturization of Frank Danby's famous story "The Heart of a Child." This picture will remain at that theater until Thursday.

ETHEL CLAYTON IS APPEALING HEROINE IN NEW PHOTOPLAY

Plays Role of Disillusioned Wife in "A Lady in Love" With Fine Success

The attraction at the Majestic Theater, starting Monday, will be Ethel Clayton in her new Paramount Artcraft picture, "A Lady in Love." This was adapted by Alice Eyton from the popular stage play by Harriet Ford and Alice Duer and is declared to be a thoroughly entertaining drama.

Miss Clayton has a role of Barbara, the heroine, who elopes from her convent school with Burton Sedgewick, rascally younger brother of her guardian, George Sedgewick. Soon she learns that Burton has another wife and a child living. He fears arrest on account of some frauds in which he is involved and flees the country. Barbara goes to live with George Sedgewick and his wife, Clara. The latter has a secret admirer in Gilbert Rhodes, who is a secret partner in Burton's crooked schemes.

Barbara finds herself in love with an upright young lawyer named Brent. When Barbara learns that Clara plans to run away with Rhodes she follows the woman to Rhodes' rooms, discovers Burton hiding there, and brings matters to a dramatic climax.

Harrison Ford is the leading man in "A Lady in Love," and the rest of the supporting company is of singular high caliber. Walter Edwards was the director.

Ruth King evokes the amusement of her friends whenever she tells them that some day she is going to travel from Los Angeles to New York on a bicycle—a self-propelled one and not a gas-driven motorcycle. Ruth is the leading lady of "A Beggar in Purple," the Edgar Lewis-Pathe feature photoplay.

Richard Cummings, who plays a butler role in the Edgar Lewis-Pathe production, "A Beggar in Purple," is the possessor of an enviable number of pedigreed hens and roosters and a thoroughbred bull pup.

CHAS. RAY'S FATHER HAS CHANGED MIND REGARDING ACTORS

Star of "Paris Green" Went on Stage Against Father's Advice

Charles Ray is one young man who hasn't come to a bad end as the result of not following his father's advice. Even as a youngster Charlie wanted to be an actor. Matters came to such a crisis that the day following Charles' graduation from high school, Papa Ray took him to one side and spoke as follows:

"I want to see you make your way in the world. Very few actors ever do that. They are out of work most of the time. When they do find work they sleep in cheap hotels and boarding houses and borrow money to pay their board bills and wear celluloid collars to save laundry bills. In New York they stand on the curb and chew toothpicks and flirt with the ladies who pass by. But I'll tell you what I'll do with you, Charles. You go to college and I'll pay the bills. Then if at the end of four years you still want to be an actor, I'll say, 'Go ahead'."

Charles agreed. His college career over, he came home and showed his dad his diploma.

"Now I'm ready to go on the stage," said the graduate.

The elder Ray is a man of his word. Charles made his debut in a small part at Hooley's Theatre, Chicago. One night, without his son being aware of it, Mr. Ray came to town and watched Charles from a seat in the balcony. At the end of the show, he went "back stage" and shook hands with the boy.

"You were right, son," he said. "You'll be a star some day."

And so he is. His latest film vehicle is "Paris Green", which is coming to the Majestic Theatre next Thursday.

"Nomads of the North" Comes to "The Rivoli" the Last Half of Week

MORE than the usual interest attaches to the announcement of the forthcoming engagement of James Oliver Curwood's "Nomads of the North" at the Rivoli theater beginning Thursday. All those who saw "Back to God's Country" and "The River's End", masterpieces from the workshop of this author, realize they are justified in expecting something extraordinary in the latest picturizations of his brand of outdoors. Far North fiction. This film is an Associated First National Attraction and it is said to be one of the very best features ever offered by this organization. The three high-lights in the production, according to advance information, are the remarkable performance of animals including many wild ones in general and a pet bear and dog in particular; a forest fire which is accredited with setting a new high mark in realism and thrills; and a romance of all-absorbing qualities quite different than the ordinary run of love affairs so universal in the movies. The cast which has been selected to play the various picturesque roles in this intense drama of the wildest of God's country includes such stars as Betty Blythe, Lon Chaney, Lewis Stone, Melbourne McDowell and Spottiswood Aitken.

FAMOUS NOVEL IS PICTURIZED FOR ELSIE FERGUSON

Mrs. Humphry Ward's Great Story, "Lady Rose's Daughter" Star's Vehicle

Elsie Ferguson's latest appealing Paramount picture, "Lady Rose's Daughter" which will be shown at the Rivoli theater for three days, starting today, is a superb picturization of Mrs. Humphrey Ward's celebrated novel of the same name which scored a world success several years ago.

The story, which is regarded as one of the best ever written by Mrs. Ward, was first published as a serial in Harper's Magazine and later it appeared in book form. It was dramatized by George Fleming and produced in London. Under the management of Charles Frohman, "Lady Rose's Daughter" was presented with enormous success at the Empire theater in New York, with Fay Davis in the title role.

The heroine of the story is Julie Le Breton, an orphan girl who is born out of wedlock. Her misfortune is continually thrown into her face and she has an interesting love affair. The story treats of heredity in an entertaining manner and in its development. Elsie Ferguson plays three roles, those of the grandmother, mother and daughter.

The screen adaptation was made by Burns Mantle and the director was Hugh Ford. David Powell, Holmes E. Herbert and Ida Waterman have important parts. The photography was the work of Arthur Miller.

BARS ROUGH STUFF IN COMEDY LAUGHS

There is a brief glimpse of a boxing match in "Out for the Night," third of the new two-reel Christie comedies, which comes to the Rivoli theater today, but sensitive patrons are assured that they will see nothing of the prize fight character. One of the strictest rules of the Christie studios is that there must be nothing that approaches the brutal character in any of the comedies, and though there are generally some very strenuous scenes in these pictures, the Christie brand of humor does not call for the injury of a character as a basis for laughs.

"I believe in comedy of situations," says Al Christie. "That offers sufficient room for all the laughs. Speed helps keep up the fun, but the mauling of characters is not needed to stir the finer sense of humor. I'd rather miss a few roars and leave the people with a thoroughly pleasant feeling after the picture is over."

"Out for the Night" is a story of the hen-pecked head of a girls' school who loves a boxing match.

Eddie Barry is the featured player, the cast including Neal Burns, Charlotte Merriam and the Follies Girls.

"Scratch My Back," one of the late comedy sensations in filmdom, will be the attraction at the Rivoli the first three days of next week.

Chicago annually produces manufactured goods to the value of more than $1,500,000,000, made by more than 10,000 establishments.

RIVOLI

Packed with thrills from start to finish, Elsie Ferguson's latest picture, "Lady Rose's Daughter," which is shown at the Rivoli theater today, is meeting with enormous success throughout the country. Finely produced by Hugh Ford for Paramount release and superbly acted, this is one of the most charming photoplays of Miss Ferguson's repertoire this season.

The story is not only dramatic, but it exerts a powerful heart appeal. The theme deals with the love affair of an English girl who is born out of wedlock, but who finds love and happiness in the end. Supported by a cast headed by such players as David Powell, Holmes E. Herbert, Frank Losee, Warren Cook and Ida Waterman, the picture is admittedly one of unusual interest to movie fans.

"Out for the Night," a two reel Christie comedy, which is also on the program at the Rivoli, is not a story of high jinks before the days of a professor in a girls' school, who dotes on boxing matches and steals away from his domineering wife to use the ticket he has found. The comedy largely centers around the professor's ignorance of life of home and wife. Eddie Barry, in the role of the professor is the featured player.

"Jungle Vaudeville," a Ditmar animal picture, and an organ solo by Walter Goetzinger will complete an entertaining bill.

MAJESTIC

"Bab's Candidate," starring Corinne Griffith, will be shown at the Majestic theater today only. It is a screen adaptation of "Gumshoe 4-L," by Forrest Crissy, which appeared in Harper's Magazine. This story was allotted the prize in the O. Henry Memorial contest offered by the American Society of Arts and Sciences. The picture has all the quaint humor and charming small town atmosphere that made the story a masterpiece in fiction.

Avoiding a man because she is afraid he will propose to her is one of pretty Ethel Clayton's experiences in her new picture, "A Lady in Love," which will be the attraction at the Majestic for three days starting Monday.

Not that he wasn't a perfectly nice person. As a matter of fact, he was very handsome, and she loved him herself. But, as an innocent convent girl she had eloped with a rascal and married him. Now she was paying the price. However, it all turned out happily, though not until after some mighty dramatic events. Harrison Ford is the leading man in this new Paramount Arteraft picture.

Alice Eyton was the scenarist and the film was adapted from the stage play by Caroline Duer and Harriet Ford.

BIJOU

Whopee! "Pinto," the flashing dashing western whirlwind, is coming. Who is she? Why, she's the rollicking, frollicking two-gun girl from Cactus Town who rough-rides into high society. Fun and speed? Just see "Pinto" stampede a herd of Monacled Montys and Lorgnetted Lizzies. Watch her stage a wild west show that sends a shiver up the powdered spines of the social buzzards. Just pipe the way she ropes herself a classy social Romeo. Say, you'll just laugh yourself into hysterics. Can you imagine Mabel Normand as "Pinto?" Don't imagine it, or you'll miss something.

See Mabel Normand in "Pinto," a Goldwyn picture, at the Bijou today only, matinee and night.

CASINO

Nazimova, the screen's greatest actress, comes to the Casino theater, starting today, in a picturization of Frank Danby's most celebrated novel, "The Heart of a Child."

In this, her newest production, the Russian star appears in a character entirely different from any she has essayed in the past, that of Sally Snape, a cockney girl from the Limehouse district of London who is forced to face the world with no other means of protection than her innate goodness, her inborn sense of what is right, her child's heart.

There is in "The Heart of a Child" a gorgeousness of pictorial beauty. The early tenement-street scenes are done with amazing fidelity to detail, yet created with an eye to the picturesque that brings their shabbiness to border on the quaint. Such later bits of the story as the Bohemian revel, the theatrical dressing room scenes, the glimpses of Lord Kidderminster's hunting lodge, with its manorial dignity, and later the superb beauty of his family estate all go to make up a series of strikingly pleasing scenes.

In support of Nazimova in "The Heart of a Child," is a cast of exceptional brilliancy. Charles Bryant, who wrote the scenario for the piece, enacts the part of Lord Kidderminster; and others who have important parts are Ray Thompson, Nell Newman, Victor Potel, Eugene Klum, Claire Du Brey, Jane Sterling, John Steppling, William J. Irving and Myrtle Risbell. Direction is by Ray C. Smallwood, photography by Rudolph J. Bergquist and special art effects by Allen Ruoff.

RIVIERA

Willard Mack's greatest story has been made into a picture, "The Valley of Doubt," and will be shown at the Riviera theater today only. It is a story of the Canadian Northwest country and the Royal Mounted Police. It is packed with thrills and a pretty love story is interwoven, enacted by an all-star cast.

LA CROSSE

Gruet, Kramer and Gruet will be the featured entertainers in a combination of singing, dancing and blackface comedy, which is located on a circus lot. Howe and Fay in a burlesque mind reading act will hold the fourth spot on the bill. Nan Sullivan and company offer a comedy musical sketch entitled "The Street Singer." Hickey and Hart in songs and dances of today and Hughes and Larado doing gymnastic stunts and bag punching will complete the program.

Norma Talmadge has finished "The Branded Woman" and it has been booked for the Rivoli for four day starting December 1st.

EX-DOUGHBOY HERO

"Paris Green," starring youthful Charles Ray, will be the feature at the Majestic theater next Thursday. The star has the role of an ex-doughboy who meets entertaining adventures in Paris and back on an American farm. Julien Josephson wrote the story. It is a Paramount Artcraft picture.

Jean one of the best known canine actors of the screen appears in "The Valley of Doubt" today at the Riviera. Jean is a full grown Collie, and his screen career began when he appeared as a puppy in a basket. The story is written by Willard Mack.

The Old Testament was collected and arranged by Ezra, 450 B. C.

SISTER OF LATE GOV. WASHBURN CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Caroline Holmes Dies at Her Home in Minneapolis Aged Ninety

Mrs. Caroline A. Holmes, 90 years old, one of the oldest residents of Minneapolis, widow of Freeland S. Holmes and sister of Governor C. C. Washburn, one-time resident of La Crosse, United States Senator William D. Washburn and Elihu B. Washburn died at her home in Minneapolis, according to word received here.

Mrs. Holmes was known by a few of the older residents of La Crosse, having visited here when her brother, Governor C. C. Washburn was a resident. The family lived in the residence now known as the Banks homestead at Seventh and Ferry streets.

Born in the first administration of Jackson she observed the development of this country from the time of the stage coach and the spinning wheel up to the great industrial organization of the present day. Mrs. Holmes was born January 20, 1830, at Livermore, Maine and was one of a family of 10 children raised on a farm in New England. Her father, Israel Washburn, died at the age of 93.

Plymouth Colony Descendant

Her father was a direct descendant of John Washburn, the first secretary of Plymouth colony and her mother, Martha Benjamin Washburn was the daughter of Lieutenant Israel Benjamin, who was among the first in New England to take his musket and fight the British at Lexington. He enlisted at Cambridge, Mass., joined the army of Washington and never returned until after the siege of Yorktown in 1781.

Mrs. Holmes' grandfather was Colonel Livermore of the Massachusetts regiment which took part in the siege of Louisburg in the Seven Years' war in the time of Frederick the Great. She is a direct descendant of the Pilgrims, Cook and Warren, who made the pilgrimage to Leyden and afterwards took ship at Southampton to Plymouth Rock.

Three Brothers in Congress

Between 1850 and 1880 her three brothers, Elihu, Israel and Cadwallader Washburn were members of Congress and were actively engaged in preventing the Anti-Slavery cause. Upon the repeal of the Missouri Compromise, Israel called together the first caucus of the members of the House of Representatives out of which grew the Republican party. He then became governor of Maine.

C. C. Washburn resigned his seat in Congress and came to Wisconsin where he organized the first Wisconsin cavalry of which he became colonel. He took part in Grant's campaign at Vicksburg and afterwards became Major-General and was in charge of units in Arkansas and Louisiana.

He was elected governor of Wisconsin in 1871, while a resident of La Crosse and served one term, then moving to Minneapolis. C. C. Washburn is buried in Oak Grove cemetery here, and his monument is the tallest shaft in the cemetery.

One of Lincoln's Associates

E. B. Washburn retained his seat in Congress during the Civil war and was the daily associate of President Lincoln. He was made secretary of state under the first Grant administration and afterwards became Minister to France. Another brother, Samuel, was capsized of a United States war vessel in the Gulf of Mexico, and Charles Washburn was appointed minister to Paraguay. Mrs. Holmes was also the sister of Mrs. Chas. Stevens who died at the age of 90, and was well known among old residents of St. Paul and Minneapolis.

Condensed Furniture

A French inventor has designed a suite of furniture answering the purpose of dining room, sitting room and bedroom with storage room for some kitchen utensils, which may be packed away in a box not much larger than an ordinary trunk. The box itself when opened up and covered with a mattress affords sleeping accomodations for two persons.

A machine has been invented that strips bark from camphor trees without injuring the trees.

DID THIS EVER HAPPEN TO YOU?

SPOKANE, Wash.—Robert Dalton is 15. He was "misunderstood" at home. Robert admits it. He played hookey. Papa spanked. Robert could no longer tolerate the "misunderstanding." The cops are looking for him. He may be shooting Indians or be on his way to Africa.

THE LADIES' Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans entertained seventy-five members of the Grand Army of the Republic and the Sons of Veterans and their families at its hall in the court house Thursday in commemoration of Veterans' day, November 15. A splendid address was given by Mayor A. A. Bentley, who is also a son of a veteran. Commander E. C. Cronon, who is eighty-three years "young," ably responded. A pleasing program was given, which included patriotic songs and readings by Mrs. Carrie Thiel and the little Misses Dollie Orcutt and Charlotte and Wilma Hyslop. One of the readings by Mrs. Thiel was specially fine and appropriate, "The Fifty-seventh Anniversary of Lincoln's Address of the Battle of Gettysburg." Supper was served at half past six and the evening was most delightfully spent socially. On Thursday the ladies of the auxiliary sent a "Veterans' Day" treat to the veterans at the Waupaca home. It contained tobacco, cookies and candy, also a card inscribed with an appropriate verse to each soldier.

CHEWS UP PAPER BY WHOLESALE

Securing population statistics of the fourteenth census has been achieved at the expenditure of no small amount of print paper.

In obtaining figures of populations, the enumerators used 2,500,000 blanks. Cost of the paper was $22,150.

For making tabulation cards in enumeration of population and the number of population "gainfully employed" used at Washington after the field statistics had been gathered there were required 175,000,000 cards or of 1,200,000 pounds of paper.

Special schedules for agriculture, farm information and livestock statistics called for use of 15,500,000 specially prepared sheets. Illustrative "samples" showing how these schedules should be prepared, required 750,000 additional sheets. Application blanks for enumerators took 375,000 more sheets.

Additional paper requirements were: 550,000 illustrative schedules; 100,000 examples of test schedules; 125,000 absent family schedules; 6,000 military and naval population blanks, and 650,000 other special blanks.

There is still the manufacturing census to be completed, which requires 125,000 copies of a four-page schedule, and about seventy-five special schedules. There are sixty-four separate schedules for mines and quarries alone.

When the whole is completed there will be publication of statistics for the 1910 last census filled eleven volumes, a total of 12,050 pages. Of these 5,000 sets were printed, or of 60,250,000 pages. The present census will be of about the same proportions.

CHARITY BALL ONE OF MOST SUCCESSFUL EVER HELD; COSTUMES DAINTY, DECORATIONS DAZZLE

MISS MARY CROSBY

MRS. JOHN BRINDLEY

MRS. ALFRED W. LANGENBACH

MRS. JOHN BAYER

MISS BERTHA HICKISCH

The charity ball of 1920 is declared to have been one of the most successful balls ever given by the Woman's Auxiliary of the La Crosse hospital. While the result of the ticket sale cannot at the present time be announced, it is thought that it will not reach the amount realized a year ago, but from a social and artistic standpoint it is said it surpassed last year's function. To Miss Mary Crosby, general chairman of arrangements, and the co-operation of the members of the committees, goes generous praise for the success attained. While most of the committee heads served last year, there were three new chairmen who did fine work. Exquisitely dainty and beautiful costumes in a decorative setting indicative of fairy land itself, made an alluring scene. The living pictures were a delightful feature of the evening's festivity, that of Whistlers mother, taken by Mrs. N. C. Dorset, being especially attractive. The balcony was filled with guests who did not care to dance, but who came to enjoy the charming scene below, and to listen to the concert given by the orchestra an hour before the opening of the ball.

Wheat and Potatoes Mixed

A fifty-fifty mixture of wheat flour from the United States and potato flour of domestic make is being ordered by the Netherlands Government for its people with the hope of keeping down the price of bread. Unless something is done to keep down the price of the imported wheat it will soon be out of reach of the populace. Potato starch was used a great deal during the war for the purpose of piecing out the wheat flour supply and it was not generally acceptable by the people, but potato flour will not be open to the same criticism, and it is anticipated will prove more palatable.

Upstaters Trimmed by Local High School Aggregation 14 to 7 Before Record Attendance of the Year

LOCALS SCORE TOUCHDOWN IN FIRST AND THIRD

McMahon and Wallace Feature Playing of Eau Claire Eleven

Playing before a crowd of spectators that taxed the capacity of the bleachers on either side of Normal field, the La Crosse high school football machine triumphed over the Eau Claire aggregation 14 to 7 in one of the hardest fought battles of the season.

The local's first touchdown came in the initial period when they started the rush from the Eau Claire thirty yard line. Zoerb uncorked the first long gain and after several other line plunges by Maloney and Dunham, he edged over for the count. The game went scoreless then until Maloney crashed through over the one foot mark after the ball had been placed there by Zoerb. The stellar playing of McMahon, fullback and Wallace, right half for the Eau Claire aggregation was largely responsible for their aggressive tactics.

Locals Play Offensive

The local aggregation, apparently considered a favorite to win after a few moments of play, maintained an aggressive spirit throughout the entire first half and was largely successful in making the downs. Toward the latter part of the third quarter, however, Coach Meade's machine was forced to play a defensive battle in the face of the sudden spurt acquired by the opposing aggregation at this stage of the game and in spite of their gruelling attempt to check the rush of the Eau Claire eleven, the latter went through for their only touchdown in the game.

Eau Claire Receives

Captain Sullivan lost the toss, and Eau Claire chose to receive from the north goal. They lost the ball on downs, after a series of line plunges, and La Crosse recovered on the visitor's 40 yard line. They in turn, lost the ball on downs, on the 18 yard mark. Hans Zoerb nailed Eau Claire for an eight yard loss, and the northerners punted out of danger to Zoerb. For several minutes, the ball was punted back and forth, Eau Claire getting the best end of the punting before La Crosse forced the ball deep into their opponents territory before the visitors obtained it. La Crosse's first score came when Eau Claire booted to La Crosse who returned it to the fifty-five yard line. Frey made a brilliant quarterback run which netted eighteen yards. Dutch Engelke added seven more, and Zoerb, with splendid interference by Turek, reeled back the remaining thirty yards for a touchdown. Sullivan kicked the goal. Score 7-0. The end of the quarter found the ball in the middle of the field.

Attempt Pass

With fifty yards to go, Eau Claire made a desperate attempt to cross the whitewash. Olson made five yards, and Donaldson made the downs for Eau Claire. Olson then added twelve more. A forward pass failed, and an attempted drop kick resulted in a fumbled ball. As before, the teams were repeatedly forced to punt being unable to make their downs consistently. Here the northerners had the edge on La Crosse, their quarterback Donaldson, getting away repeatedly with splendid distance. This was not enough to squelch the local offensive combination however, Dunham, Maloney, and Zoerb making neat gains around the corners. A goal from placement was tried in this period by Sullivan, but it was blocked by an Eau Claire tackle, La Crosse also opened up with the aerial game in this section, but the attempt was a failure.

Eau Claire kicked to Maloney who was downed on his own thirty yard line. Kilian punted to Eau Claire who stopped the ball, but Holley, speedy La Crosse end, fell on it on the opposing thirty yard line. Maloney sailed a pass right into Donaldson's hands, but the Eau Claire man was downed by Kilian on the thirty-five yard line. The punting game was again resorted to and on one of the punts La Crosse received, they advanced the pigskin to the 5 yard mark. They lost it to their opponents after failing to make their downs but Bill Turek promptly picked up a fumble and deposited the ball on the twenty yard line. Zoerb made another pretty sprint for fifteen yards, and one more for five leaving the ball on the one foot line where Maloney shoved it across the chalk. Sullivan again kicked the goal.

The third period whistle found the ball in Eau Claire's possession on their own thirty-five yard line.

Upstaters Strengthen

Eau Claire then started with aggressive tactics forcing the oval to the thirty yard line by a series of halfback runs by their lightning right side man. Donaldson made 8 yards through center, and several other runs by Olson and McMahon, brought the ball within ten yards of goal. Wallace carried it over but was out of bounds on the one yard line. The ball was brought back, and Donaldson negotiated the remaining yardstick. McMahon kicked goal.

La Crosse kicked to Eau Claire and started things with a vim, hoping to increase their lead over the northern city, but they met with hard luck. After taking turns kicking, Kilian punted to his upstate opponent, who was downed on the 10 yard line. Carrol Stokke, who with his brother Edgar have done the best defensive work in the line this season, was laid out in a tackle, and Ed Miller was put in. Mooney Vondrashek, Leo Mueller and Glen Murrie, who have been out of the game for the last two weeks were also put in and though Vondrashek made a ten yard run to the 12 yard line, with but two minutes to play, the locals lost the ball on downs, and Eau Claire hoofed the ball out of danger, keeping it there till the whistle blew.

Significant Borders

On certain fete days in some parts of Brittany the marriageable girls appear in red petticoats with white or yellow borders around them. The number of borders denote the portion the father is willing to give his daughter. Each white band denotes 100 francs per annum; each yellow band represents 1,000 francs a year.

HEN-PECKED HENRY HAS NOTHING ON MR. M. L. MURRAY

SIOUX CITY, Iowa.—Attacked by thousands of crows while duck hunting on the Missouri river near here, M. L. Murray, Salix, killed and wounded more than five hundred of the angry birds in three hours of constant fighting, using about two hundred shot gun shells. The coming darkness gave him an opportunity to escape. The fight started when Mr. Murray shot a lone crow and wounded it. The wounded bird cried for help and hundreds of others came to its aid. Soon the ground was covered with dedd crows. The remaining birds attacked Murray, striking him with their beaks and wings. When darkness came the hunter was able to retreat to a willow patch, and the crows, unable to advance upon him, returned to roost.

THREE FIELD GOALS WINS FOR HARVARD OVER YALE MACHINE

Game Was Remarkable Exhibition of Modern Open and Aerial Game

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Repulsed repeatedly in their attacks at the Yale goal line today, Harvard resorted to a kicking offensive and with three field goals defeated the Elis by 9 to 0 in the annual football combat in the Yale bowl.

The contest, witnessed by close to 80,000 spectators, and the thirty-ninth between the two universities since 1875, was a remarkable exhibition of the comparatively modern open and aerial game. While loosely played at times, it fairly bristled with brilliant forward passes and sweeping runs which repeatedly brought the thousands of crimson and blue adherents to their feet as though the occupants of the vast bowl were being manipulated by a system of wires such as are used in puppet shows.

The defeat of Yale, while not unexpected, took a most unusual turn due to the rugged but savage defense of the Elis, who, facing a far more finished football machine, refused to be awed by the gridiron juggernaut of Harvard. Hurling their bodies in front of the crimson charges or leaping upon dodging and squirming runners, the Yale players battled so savagely that although the Cambridge clan several times drove the Elis back to the shadow of their own goal posts, a touchdown was beyond the physical ability of the crimson eleven, led by Arnold Horween.

In this crisis, Harvard fell back upon the kick for field goal and three times out of five booted the ball between the uprights, while Yale, defeated but not disgraced, left the field with the satisfaction of having partially checked its greatest rival in a triumph that was considered such a foregone conclusion that Harvard cohorts were offering odds of 3 to 1 before the game with few takers.

Both teams showed a stronger defense than attack and this was particularly noticeable in the case of Yale, which apparently had assimilated the lesson of the Princeton defeat and followed the ball with commendable zeal. Harvard found it reasonably easy to gain ground between the 25-yard lines but once within striking distance of a touchdown the Yale line and secondary defense stiffened and held their rivals' charges to small gains, which necessitated kicking. The blue, however, failed to develop anything in the way of a deceptive attack, and almost all of its line plunges, end runs and passes were diagnosed and held to a failure or small gains.

While Harvard could not cross the Yale goal line it could and did move when necessity required within striking distance of a field goal. During the sixty minutes of play Harvard gained 210 yards in 66 rushes which gave five opportunities for field goals, three of which were successful. Yale gained but sixty yards in 32 rushes and never seriously threatened the crimson goal while Harvard was once within eight yards of a touchdown but could not drive the Eli eleven back at the critical moment.

Buell kicked two field goals and Horween the other for Harvard.

DAVEY DROP-KICKS VICTORY IN FINAL FRAME FOR BADGERS

Brings Second Victory for Wisconsin This Season by Drop-Kick Route

CHICAGO, Ill.—Allen Davey sent a drop kick spinning through the uprights in the final quarter today and gave Wisconsin three points to none for Chicago in a game in which Chicago gained honors for its valiant fighting although forced to surrender the victory to the Badgers.

The Maroons, apparently facing an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the eleven which a week ago conquered Illinois, rushed into the contest with an aggressive spirit which kept Wisconsin on the defensive throughout the first quarter.

Every Maroon play was characterized by daring and determination which brought cheers from the 30,000 spectators in appreciation of the efforts of Coach Stagg's men to close their unsuccessful season with a comeback which would have been unparalleled in recent western conference annals.

The latent superiority of Wisconsin began to show in the second half, however. Forward passes, which Chicago previously had broken up easily began to nestle safely in the arms of Crimson sweatered athletes and the slashing off tackle dashes of the Badger halfbacks brought additional yardage.

Davey Kicks

About the middle of the final period Wisconsin recovered the ball on its own 45 yard line. Williamson, whose leaping runs had brought many gains to Coach Richards' team, dodged and twisted around end for thirty yards and after forward passes had failed, Davey dropped back to the 27 yard line for a kick. The forwards held beautifully and Davey took several seconds to get the ball in position in his hands. Just as McGuire, the Chicago tackle leaped high to block, Davey's toe met the ball and sent it end over end squarely between the uprights for the only points of the game. It was the second victory he had brought Wisconsin this season, his kick beating Minnesota 3 to 0 a few weeks ago.

The Maroons uncovered a group of ancient tricks which brought Coach Stagg a reputation for fortiness a decade ago, working on side kick-offs and several end around criss crosses.

The victory placed Wisconsin in second place in the conference race, which ended with today's game with a record of four victories and one defeat.

UNIVERSITY OF IOWA DEFEATS STATE COLLEGE

AMES, Iowa.—The University of Iowa's eleven proved its superior strength here today by defeating Iowa State college, 14 to 10. Iowa made its touchdown in the second and third quarters. Ames made a field goal in the second quarter and a touchdown in the final period.

"Tower of the Winds"

This is the water clock erected at Athens, Greece, in the second or first century before Christ. It is octagonal in plan, 42 feet high and 26 feet in diameter. Toward the top of each side it is sculptured with various symbols of the wind. Originally the structure was surmounted with a bronze Triton, which served as a weather vane.—Merrill Herald.

MINNESOTA LOSES SIXTH STRAIGHT TO MICHIGAN TEAM

Halfback Toes Oval Twenty-eight Yards for Winning Count of Game

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Minnesota rounded out the most disastrous football season in her history today, when Michigan snatched a 3 to 0 victory, marking the Gophers' sixth straight Big Ten conference defeat this year.

And tonight, the "Little Brown Jug," emblematic of gridiron supremacy, is on its way back to Michigan. The jug, which became a trophy back in 1903, was recaptured by Minnesota last year after it had been in Michigan's possession ten years.

It was the trained toe of Left Halfback Steketee that turned the tide to Michigan. Standing directly in front of Minnesota's goal posts in the second period, Steketee booted a place kick squarely between the uprights from a distance of 28 yards.

A break in luck put the Michiganders within striking distance. After an exchange of punts, Captain Neal Arntson of Minnesota circled Michigan's right end, then fumbled as he was tackled and the Wolverines recovered on the Gophers' 15-yard line. Michigan lost on two end plays, but put the ball directly in position for the kick from placement. Apparently disheartened, Arntson walked to the side lines shortly after, and Eggler replaced him.

It was home-coming day for Minnesota and many veterans of the famous 1903 Gopher eleven were in the stands with more than 20,000 other persons who saw the game.

No Really White Silk

There is no such thing as pure white silk. There are three colors of so-called white silk, oyster, which is sometimes called pure white, though it has a slight blue tinge; ivory, which has a tinge of pale yellow, and cream, in which the yellow tone can be plainly seen.

REMEMBER JOHNNY?

A few years ago no sport page was complete without the name of Johnny Kling spilled around on it.

Then bang—he quit the game while still a great catcher.

He located in Kansas City and changed his business from baseball to billiards.

Now he's made such a stack of dough that he's trying to buy stock in some major league club. The future of baseball looks mighty bright to Johnny.

He was a brainy baseball player. He had the business gray matter to make money out of his billiard business. And Johnny ought to make a brainy club owner.

NOTRE DAME TRIMS NORTHWESTERN BY 33 TO 7 SCORE

EVANSTON, Ill.—After Northwestern university's football team had held Notre Dame scoreless for the first quarter, the visitors threw in the first string men and later added Gripp, the sensational halfback, to the line-up, whipping the western conference aggregation by 33 to 7.

After the regulars were sent in, Notre Dame sent two men across for touchdowns in the second period, making another in the third and two in the fourth.

More than 18,000 people witnessed the contest.

Chinese art is largely conventional, no shadows being put in.

BUCKEYES TRIUMPH OVER ILLINOIS IN SPECTACULAR GAME

Workman-Myers Combination in Forward Pass Nets Winning Count

SPECTACULAR WORK COMES IN FINAL TEN SECONDS

Ohio State Remains Undefeated in 1920 Season

URBANA, Ill.—Ohio State carried the 1920 football championship of the Western conference back to the Presidential state tonight.

In the most spectacular finish seen on historic Illinois field in years, the Ohioans triumphed over Illinois, 7 to 0, in the deciding game of the "Big Ten" race today when Myers, in the last ten seconds of play, snatched a 37 yard forward pass from Workman and dashed across the Orange and Blue line for the only touchdown of the game. Pete Stinchcomb, the brilliant Ohio left halfback, kicked the ball squarely between the Illinois goal for the extra point.

Ohio Undefeated

By winning today's game, Ohio remained undefeated this season and has undisputed claim to the title. Both teams were keyed to a high fighting pitch and fought virtually on even terms until the final few minutes of play. Illinois weakened through the loss of Captain John Depler, all-western center, and further crippled by injuries to Carney, the brilliant receiving end of the spectacular Walquist-Carney aerial combination and Ralph Fletcher, star kicker and halfback, fought stubbornly to check the smashing attack of Ohio's superb back-field. The Ohioans carried the fight into Illinois territory during most of the game, although each eleven marched the ball to within inches of the opposing goal, but lacked the drive to put the oval across.

INDIANA DEFEATS PURDUE IN HARD FOUGHT CONTEST

LAFAYETTE.—Indiana defeated Purdue, 10 to 7 today in the hardest fought contest ever seen here. A goal from placement by Risley in the fourth period gave the Crimson eleven its victory both teams having previously scored a touchdown.

Bishop Hoss said at a Nashville picnic:

"The religious knowledge of too many adults resembles, I am afraid, the religious knowledge of little Eve.

"'So you attend Sunday-School regularly?' the minister said to little Eve.

"'Oh, yes, sir'.

"'And you know your bible?'

"'Oh, yes, sir.'

"'Could you perhaps tell me something that is in it?'

"'I could tell you everything that's in it.'

"'Indeed.' And the minister smiled. 'Do tell me, then.'

"'Sister's beau's photo is in it,' said little Eve promptly, 'and ma's recipe for vanishin' cream is in it, and a lock of my hair cut off when I was a baby is in it, and the ticket for pa's watch is in it'."—Los Angeles Times.

Committee Arranging for Big Winter Festival Here Arranges for Special Show

The La Crosse winter carnival committee has secured two reels of motion pictures taken at St. Paul during their big carnival of 1917 and will exhibit them at the Casino Theater Monday and Tuesday of this week. Arrangements are being made whereby these pictures can be shown at other theatres.

In this way the people of La Crosse who have never attended a winter carnival can see for themselves just what happens on these joyous occasions. The film also has many splendid suggestions as to the formation of marching clubs, the proper costumes, the games, the sports and other features that go to make winter carnivals successful wherever they are backed up with the proper community spirit.

Particular attention is called to the fact that a winter carnival is for everybody. A study of the films will show that, excepting during the parades, nobody merely looked on. And even during the parades, the audiences joined in the fun in many ways. The committee wants everyone who possibly can to see these pictures. They will be shown in connection with the newest Nazimova feature, "The Heart of a Child."

Everyone in La Crosse county is invited to participate. The winter carnival is not a money-making venture. Everything will be free, unless you want to spend money on things aside from the carnival proper. All the committee wants you to bring is "the heart of a child" and a willingness to participate in what will go down in history as La Crosse's greatest fun-making event.

Chinese Perfume

In China, at dinners and at theatrical performances, it is customary to provide the guests or spectators with small hot towels saturated with scented water for wiping their faces. Scented water is also much used in connection with bathing and the every-day washing of faces and hands. In some Latin-American countries there is a very great demand for perfumery. If a person needs a bath, a dash of perfume is supposed to serve as well and time and trouble saved.

Rice Farmers Find Gold

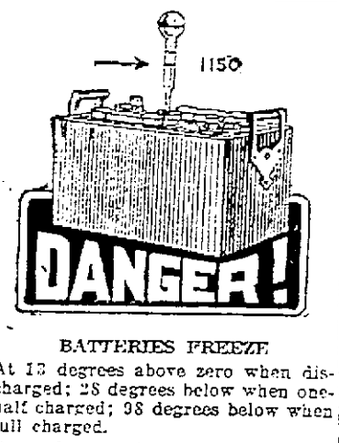

The great gold fields of the Kolar District of India were discovered in a curious way. In prosperous years, when the gods favored the valley with an ample harvest of rice, grains of gold were found now and then on the rice ears. This greatly mystified the natives who ascribed the gold to supernatural powers.

The strange occurrence, at first deemed supernatural, led to the discovery that the gravels of the valley were rich in gold, brought down from the mountains. Since then the Kolar district has contributed largely to the world's supply of the yellow metal.

What probably happened was that these grains, derived from the gravelly soil, lodged in the young rice plants when they were being grown in the nurseries (for subsequent transplantation to the fields) and flooded at intervals with water.

Everyone Works in Switzerland

The indigent unemployed of Switzerland are dealt with as an economic question. The Swiss act on the theory that a man who is unemployed is, if left to himself, prone to become unemployable, and that for a community to allow any one of its members who is capable of work to remain unemployed is a public waste.
